Both Branches of the Assembly Put in a Good Day's Work.

BILLS PASSED THIRD READING

Senate Took Final Action on 15 Measures---The House Disposed of Eleven Adverse Reports.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Feb. 6.—The members of the assembly spent very little of the time today in wrangling. Both bodies showed a disposition to, if possible, clear their calendars. The house disposed of 11 adverse reports, passed two bills on second reading and one on third. The senate passed 15 bills on the third reading, one on second reading and was considering another when the adjournment hour arrived.

The question of employes came up in both houses, occupied some little time and was dropped. The principal bill under discussion in the senate was the McGuire measure regulating the number of employes necessary to handle a train.

The principal bill in the house was the measure drafted by Messrs. Lubers and McLean having for its object the repeal of the ditch law which was enacted during the closing days of the 12th.

IN THE HOUSE.

After the journal of the house had been read this morning a number of petitions regarding different bills were read and referred. Mr. Garcia introduced a joint resolution which, if adopted, will express the gratitude of the assembly to L. F. Twitchell for drafting the synopsis of the revenue measure. The resolution went over one day.

Employers' Liability.

When the senate employers' liability bill was read, by title in the house Mr. Morris moved to refer it to the committee on labor. This motion was amended by Mr. Bartels that it be referred to the judiciary committee. This brought up a discussion which was participated in by both sides that the other was not friendly to organized labor. Mr. Martin felt that the labor committee should be given the bill, while Mr. Bartels contended that the judiciary committee was more able to pass upon the constitutionality of the measure. Bartels' amendment was lost by a vote of 43 to 14, those supporting the amendment being the following:

Ballinger, Bartels, Davis, Dinkel, Garcia, Lewis, McLean, Meredith, Neely, Platt, Riley, Sanchez, Schweigert, Mr. Speaker.

The motion to refer the bill to the labor committee then prevailed.

Current Expenses.

By consent the house took up Representative Rawalt's contingent appropriation bill for the current expenses of the present four months and passed the same on third reading.

There were 11 adverse reports under consideration. Of this number six were adopted and the other five were either re-referred to the respective committees for further consideration or ordered printed.

The principal bill under adverse report was Mr. Lyttle's, regulating the practice of barbering. The committee on Denver city charter, to which the bill had been referred, recommended that it be indefinitely postponed. Mr. Cannon contended that inasmuch as a number of petitions had been received from barbers' unions asking that the bill be passed the bill should at least be printed. Mr. Stubbs said that he could not find a barber in Denver in favor of the bill. It was finally referred to the printing committee for printing.

The Irrigation Law.

The house then went into committee of the whole, with Mr. Martin in the chair. The first bill under consideration was H. B. No. 42, by Messrs. Lubers and McLean, which is intended to repeal the law enacted in the twelfth to regulate irrigation. A motion was made to re refer the bill to the committee on agriculture and irrigation. Mr. McLean contended that the bill should be taken up and considered now. He charged that lobbyists were on the floor trying to defeat the measure. Mr. Lubers gave a history of the operation of the present law as he had noticed it around Rocky Ford. He contended that the owner of a ditch could not water from his ditch to the detriment of those who should have precedence over the party to whom the water was loaned. Mr. Hammond contended that the supporters of a bill were usually so anxious in regard to the passage that they were not always reliable judges. He wanted more time to study both sides of the question. Mr. Montgomery said that he felt that an intermediate law could be enacted that would more nearly meet the approval of all who were interested. Mr. Stubbs felt that the only thing in the bill was whether the members of the assembly would respect priority of use in the distribution of water. The motion to re-refer was lost and the bill was adopted.

Owing to the fact that the night session in the house has resumed, Chairman, one of the assistants, who given that position and Mrs. Murphy of Pueblo was elected assistant clerk. During the election considerable criticisms were indulged in at the expense of the house, as in one of the Denver papers, which indicated that the irregularities in that house were still divided. At this time Mr. Briscoe introduced a resolution providing for a committee of five to be appointed to examine into the affairs of the clerks now in the employ of the house. The resolution was adopted, the following: Messrs. Lubers, Gilbert, O'Connell, Parks and Ingersoll. The resolution went over one day under the rules.

Following the election was announced by Speaker Montgomery, addressed the house of representatives as follows:

"To the reporters:——

"Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Locke request the pleasure of your presence at the marriage of their niece, Ruth Locke to Mr. James Preston Dunlavy on Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, 1901, at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Trinidad, Colo."

The invitation was accepted. It possible arrangements will be made for the entire house, as well as the reporters, to go.

SENATE SESSION.

Senator Taylor opened the morning session of the senate by objecting to an error that had been made by one of the senate clerks in regard to an amendment to senate bill No. 129. The senator intimated that the intellectual calibre of the clerks in charge was not up to the standard when compared with what was required in the handling and engrossing of bills. Secretary Kelley of the senate defended the clerks and claimed that under the present law that body was short two employes from what it had last session and that the work was too much for the present number of employes. Senator Whitford started to defend the clerks but was called to order by Senator Taylor, who asked him if it was not a fact that the clerk of the engrossment committee of the senate was unable to read and write the English language. Senator Whitford did not answer the question and the matter was dropped.

On Third Reading.

During the day the following bills passed third reading: A bill by Senator Annear concerning the payment of certain officers and to provide for the payment of certain fees, by Senator Whitford, making it a misdemeanor for the sending of messenger boys into places of ill-repute; bill relating to bills of exception, by Senator Whitford, was also adopted; by Senator Parks, a bill concerning a rule of evidence in relation to certain sales of merchandise; by Senator Bush, concerning the offense of malicious mischief; by Senator Lewis, appropriating $32,500 for the maintenance of the state insane asylum. Senator Moore's bill repealing the present law concerning blacklisting and boycotting was adopted as was also Senator Rush's bill, concerning a clerk in the justice courts. A bill to enable cities and towns to refund their indebtedness, by Senator Hallett was passed by unanimous vote, while Senator Brooklin's bribery bill had one vote against it.

The senate also passed a bill creating a state auditing board and defining the powers and duties of the same was adopted. The bill by Senator Whitford providing for a system of practice and procedure in relation to divorces and alimony was adopted. The bill provides that where the defendant in a divorce case does not appear, a jury trial is not necessary. Senate joint memorial No. 3, by Senator Ammons, in regard to the question of grazing was also passed and will be sent to congress.

Senator Hills' measure providing for the creation of road districts and the election of road overseers by the people instead of by the county commissioners was killed by a vote of 16 to 13. This bill consumed an entire day in the senate last week during the second reading.

While in committee of the whole J. Frank Adams' bill providing a code of procedure in civil action for courts of record was adopted.

McGuire's Bill.

The balance of the session was given over to the discussion of Senator McGuire's bill, requiring an adequate number of train men to be employed on all trains operated in Colorado. The bill was considered section by section. It provided for the regular set of men for all trains of 20 cars or under. When more than that number are being handled it requires an extra brakeman for every 10 cars. Senator Seidomridge considered the bill unfair in that the Rock Island has no steep grades and has no particular need for the extra brakeman. After considerable discussion the number of cars was changed from 20 to 25 for regular trains. It was also changed so that three brakemen could handle as many as 31 instead of 30 cars.

Owing to the fact that the special committee appointed to notify Vice President Roosevelt of the invitation to address the assembly had been unable to locate him either by wire, telephone or mail, Senator Farella introduced a resolution this afternoon which was adopted appointing Senator Farwell to go in person and deliver the invitation.

LIVELY DAY IN CONGRESS

The Senate Passed the Military Academy Appropriation and the

WAR REVENUE REDUCTION

Night Session to Consider the Ship Subsidy Bill Scintillated With Sharp Encounters.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Two important measures were disposed of by the senate today, the military academy appropriation bill and the war revenue reduction measure. The former was under consideration less than an hour. The only change made in it was the strengthening of the provision against hazing at West Point.

During the remainder of the afternoon session the war revenue reduction bill was before the senate. A determined but unsuccessful effort was made to reduce the tax on bank checks to provide that telegraph and express companies should bear the burden of tax on messages and packages sent. The finance committee's amendment, levying a tax on transactions in so-called "bucket shops," modifying the tax on cigars and cigarettes and providing a rebate on unbroken packages of tobacco, in addition to several others of minor character, was adopted. An amendment substituting [illegible] tax for the [illegible] revenue measure offered by Mr. [illegible] of Alabama was rejected by a party vote, 21 to 36.

Beginning at 8 o'clock this evening the first of a promised series of night sessions was held to discuss the shipping bill. The entire session was devoted to a continuous round of intellectual pyrotechnics. From a spectacular point of view the session was interesting and the sharp colloquys and snappy speeches were hugely enjoyed by those on the floor and by the large crowds in the galleries.

As agreed to, the luring paragraph in the academy bill reads as follows:

That the superintendent of the military academy shall make such rules, to be approved by the secretary of war, as will effectually prevent the practice of hazing and any other young entering upon or participating in or encouraging or countenancing such practice shall be summarily expelled from the academy and shall not thereafter be re-appointed to the corps of cadets or be eligible for appointment as a commissioned officer in the army or navy."

Mr. Aldrich (R. I.) called up the war revenue reduction bill and it was read.

Mr. [illegible] submitted an amendment on the bill had been submitted, but he would explain the committee's action after he had perfected the measure.

Revenue Amendments.

The first amendment added to the "promissory notes" (providing for the repeal of the stamp tax on such instruments) the words "and any renewals thereof."

The second modified the paragraph removing the stamp tax on bonds, making it read as follows: "Bonds of every description, not [illegible] for in this paragraph of schedule A or [illegible] of bonds for indemnifying any portion or persons, firm or corporation who shall have become bound or engaged as surety for the payment of any sum of money or for the due execution or performance of the duties of any office or post, and to account for money received [illegible] thereof."

The amendments were agreed to.

The next amendment included "perfumery and cosmetics" in the section providing for a penalty for failure to affix stamps to medicinal and proprietary preparations. It was agreed to.

There were other amendments, as follows:

Providing for a rebate upon unbroken packages of cigars and tobacco; authorizing the cancellation of stamps on fermented liquors by perforations, reducing by one half the tax upon foreign bills of exchange, for the appointment of a competent person to secure the enforcement of the tax imposed upon legacies and distributive shares of personal property, providing that the purchaser of an uncompounded medicinal drug on which the tax already had been paid shall not be required to pay further tax.

The amendment of the committee fixing the tax upon transactions in stocks through so-called "bucket shops" was agreed to, with an amendment offered by Mr. Mason, providing that a tax be levied of two cents (instead of one cent) on each one hundred dollars in value of the merchandise covered or pretended to be covered.

A committee amendment modifying the tax on cigars and cigarettes in accordance with the proposition made previously by Mr. Platt (Conn.), was agreed to.

Mr. Allison offered an amendment exempting from the tax levied upon life insurance companies "any post mortem assessment association organized and conducted solely for the members thereof."

In response to an inquiry by Mr. Jones (Ark.) Mr. Allison said the amendment would not apply to any of the recognized life insurance companies, mutual or otherwise.

The Allison amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Aldrich, explaining the effect of the bill, said that according to the calculations of the committee the reductions of the revenues made by the bill would amount to $89,500,000. This calculation did not, however, take into account the effect of the amendment [illegible] today, had incorporated in the bill, providing for a tax on bucket shops which the senate had been informed that there are [illegible] of these bucket shops in the United States. If each one of them should pay $400 the government would derive $10,000,000 from that source.

Mr. Cockrell inquired what the difference was between the pending substitute and the original bill. Mr. Aldrich replied that the house had adopted the policy of lopping off entirely a large number of the special taxes. The [illegible] taxes had been removed.

Mr. Turley (Tenn.) suggested that it could have been well had the committee presented a proposition to tax telegraph and express companies, as despite their great wealth they had escaped entirely the tax under the original law.

Mr. Aldrich said it was well understood when the original bill was passed that the tax on telegraph messages was to be paid by the sender. He had been assured by the Western Union Telegraph company that by the low rates of its tolls to the government it was now contributing from $150,000 to $200,000 a year. If required to pay [illegible] one-half of the tax it would be impossible for the company to pay its 5 per cent dividends.

He said express companies maintained that if the tax were placed on them it would absolutely destroy their business.

An amendment was agreed to providing that the tax on [illegible] banks shall be computed from the time the institutions begin business.

Mr. Chilton offered an amendment reducing the tax on bank checks from two cents to one cent, but it was defeated, 18 to 42.

An amendment offered by Mr. [illegible] was agreed to providing that the internal revenue commissioner should place the stamps provided for in the bill on sale at the postoffices of the country.

Mr. Morgan (Ala.) offered as an amendment to the measure his proposition for an income tax beginning on the first of next July and running for 20 years. The amendment placed a tax of 2 per cent upon all incomes above $4,000 a year. The amendment was in the form of a substitute for the pending bill and for the revenue law now in operation. The amendment was voted down, 21 to 36.

The vote was strictly on party lines.

The bill was then passed without division.

Mr. Aldrich then moved that a recess be taken until 8 o'clock tonight and Mr. Jones (Ark.) moved to adjourn. The vote on Mr. Jones' motion resulted 15 yeas and 35 nays. Mr. Pearson's motion then prevailed without division, and a recess was taken at 5:45 p. m. until 8 o'clock.

The Shipping Bill.

When the senate reconvened at 8 o'clock with Mr. Chandler (N. H.) in the chair, Mr. Jones (Ark.) remarked: "By actual count there are just 12 Republican senators present. I suggest the absence of a quorum."

At that time 11 Democratic senators were present. One at a time senators hurriedly entered the chamber, but when the result of the roll call was announced only 42 had responded to their names.

Mr. Frye demanded that the roll of absent senators be called.

While the call was in progress several senators entered the chamber among [illegible] Mr. Hanna, who had risen from a sick bed in order to be present.

Finally the chair announced that a quorum was present.

Mr. Frye then called up the shipping bill and it was laid before the senate.

Still standing, as he had been since the session opened, Mr. Jones entered a passionate protest against the consideration of the pending bill at [illegible] sessions.

"I believe," he said, "that this bill proposes to place our commerce of the seas under the control of the men who are now trying to get the land transportation routes by the throat.

"So help me high heaven" he shouted passionately, "I will not be a party to this effort to throttle free speech. We give you notice, if you will have night sessions, that you must have a quorum here all the time as we do not propose to contribute in any way to such a tyrannical effort to suppress free speech by brute force."

Aldrich's Reply.

Mr. Aldrich said Mr. Jones' remarks were so extraordinary as to require attention. He said no public business now was demanding the attention of the senate. No appropriation bill was pending. All that senators on his side of the chamber asked was that the senate should proceed in an orderly manner.

"There is no disposition on this side of the chamber," said he, "to stifle free speech. No such suggestion ever was made and the senator from Arkansas knows it as well as I.

"We are perfectly willing to have every measure fully and freely debated. All we ask of you is that after full discussion you shall permit a vote to be taken. The threat of the senator from Arkansas is that for the first time in our history the minority proposes to kill a bill by filibustering. We ask you that, according to all traditions and precedents of the senate, you will allow a vote to be taken upon the measure."

Teller's Protest.

Mr. Teller (Colo.) entered his protest against holding the senate in session at night for the purpose of considering a bill the purpose of which, he said, was to loot the treasury for the benefit of a few ship-owners. He would be willing, he said, to attend night sessions or long day sessions to consider legislation for the Philippines. It might be necessary to take some action with reference to Cuba and in that connection he had heard, he said, rumblings that the frightful guilt of this government as to Cuba was to be [illegible].

He was not in favor of an extra session of congress, but in the interest of good government he would be willing to remain even in extraordinary session.

Mr. Bacon (Ga.) resented the statement that the opponents of the shipping bill were filibustering. He suggested to Mr. Spooner that he call up the Spooner Philippine bill. The Wisconsin senator replied that he would be glad to obtain consideration for the bill but he was not in charge of it.

Mr. Teller said the president had no power to establish civil government in the Philippines. "No ruler," he declared, "has such unlimited power unless it be the czar of Russia or, perhaps, the sultan of Turkey."

Mr. Chandler referred sarcastically to Mr. Teller's speech as a "lucid argument against the shipping bill," and to the speech of Mr. Jones who could characterize the people who were advocating the measure as "[illegible]."

AN IMPORTANT POINT GAINED

Marquis of Queensbury Rules Admitted in Evidence to Show the Nature of the Event.

Columbus, O., Feb. 6. The state emergency board has authorized Gov. Nash to spend $50,000, if necessary, in calling out troops to stop the Cincinnati prize fight.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 6.—The second day of the Jeffries-Ruhlin prize fight cases in court brought an indication as to when the hearing would be concluded. The state is making a most exhaustive effort to show that the two fights scheduled for this city on Feb. 15 would be a public nuisance under the provisions of the Ohio law and on that ground a permanent injunction is asked. The promoters of the fight and their counsel are contesting every move made by the state, and claim to be hopeful of pulling off the boxing contest under the permit of Mayor Fleischmann, notwithstanding the radical action taken by Governor Nash and other state officials since last Saturday and especially today. The sale of seats, the training at the quarters of Jeffries, Ruhlin, Martin and Childs, the work of arranging boxes and seats at the big hall, and all other preparations for the event one week from next Friday night have been proceeding today as usual. It is evident that everything will be completed and in readiness before a decision by Judge Hollister shall be rendered. The only suspension seems to be in withholding the lithographs and other display advertising of the event. These will be [illegible] ated if Judge Hollister refuses to grant an injunction.

Fenton Lawson, director and secretary in both the musical and the athletic association was the principal witness today. William Ramsay, who was attorney for the Saengerfest Musical association, had a wordy conflict with Mr. Lawson during the noon recess of court. Ramsay, as attorney of the association, advised against a scheme which was called a lottery, a big hall as the first prize. This plan was dropped, and then, when the musical association reorganized itself into an athletic association other courses than Ramsay was included. Ramsay took no real exception to the testimony of Lawson during the forenoon session, but when court reconvened the afternoon Lawson and Ramsay were put on the stand for their respective statements.

The most important witness was Mayor Fleischmann, who testified to the condition under which he granted the permit for the fight and stated that he was justified in so doing as he gave a permit for a boxing contest that would come within the laws of Ohio.

Henry Straus, at whose cigar stand tickets are on sale, was kept on the stand most of the afternoon. Straus testified to the great demand for tickets and said the sale was [illegible] fries and Ruhlin was to be a boxing contest and not a prize fight, and he felt confident that he was not [illegible] for one that came within the provisions of the laws of Ohio.

A feature of the afternoon session was an argument between John M. Harrington and Judge Moses Wilson as to the competency of the admission of the rules of the Marquis of Queensbury in evidence. The court overruled the objection of Wilson, and a set of the rules was admitted as evidence. As the contracts that have been entered into provide for contests under these rules the attorneys for the injunction made a strong point in their efforts to show that the event here on February 15 is to be a prize fight for the championship rather than a boxing contest. The attorneys for the injunction read these rules in open court with great effect and commented on the brutality that was possible under them.

TOPEKA POLICE ORDERED THE JOINTS TO SUSPEND

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 6.—Chief of Police Stahl and Sheriff Cook went around to the keepers of the joints last night and insisted that they close until the Nation excitement blows over. The jointists promised but tonight they are open as wide as ever. Mrs. Nation announces that she has some plans for future action which will make the jointists remember that she is still in the city, but of course she does not divulge them. Mrs. Nation spent most of the day today in visiting the different jails of the city and praying and talking with the inmates. The drunk prisoners were the objects of her especial solicitude and she talked to them all in a motherly fashion. Some of them sobbed while she exhorted them to live a better life and many of them promised in the future they would not drink any more liquor. The Home Defenders, which is the organization formed by Mrs. Nation, held another secret meeting today to which no one but members with the password could be admitted.

Mrs. Nation received some curious letters and telegrams but now she is receiving hatchets of many different makes.

A man in Junction City, Kan., sent her a hatchet today with many contrivances on it which will tend to make it a dangerous weapon for the joints' smashing business.

VARIOUS RUMORS ON THE BIG STEEL DEAL.

New York, Feb. 6.—The announcement this morning that Andrew Carnegie had disposed of the control of the Carnegie company to J. P. Morgan and his associates attracted widespread attention among business men here today. Not only Wall street but the entire community appeared deeply interested in the transactions with what the local newspapers denominate a "billion dollar steel combine." It was the all-absorbing topic in brokers' offices and under persistent repetitions of the report, the stocks of the leading steel companies made violent and rapid advances. As far as positive, direct information is concerned there was practically none to be had today from Messrs. Morgan and Carnegie. Mr. Morgan declined to confirm or deny the report, while Mr. Carnegie, as well, would make no statement whatever.

The fact, however, that these two men permitted the reports to continue in circulation without even attempting a denial was generally regarded as a strong indication that they were well founded and there was something in the manner in which the reports were put forward that added to the general public's confidence in their credibility. Numerous "semi-official" statements were put forward, but those could not be traced back to the principals in the deal. According to those reports J. P. Morgan is at the head of a syndicate which contemplates the organization of a mammoth steel combine to include the Federal Steel company, the National Steel company, the Steel Hoop company, the Sheet Steel company, the American Steel and Wire company and the American Tin Plate company.

The consensus of opinion among bankers and brokers seems to be that what Andrew Carnegie had really done was to sign a contract to deliver his stock holdings in the Carnegie company to J. P. Morgan & Co. All statements as to the price to be paid by Mr. Morgan and the men associated with him in the transaction appear to be mere idle speculation. Some business men who, in the natural order of things, would not be particularly friendly to a huge combination of this character did not hesitate to call attention to the fact that in the spring of 1899 there were every positive rumors that the Carnegie interests were to be transferred and that an option had actually been given by Mr. Carnegie. Nevertheless the deal fell through.

It is claimed that H. C. Frick and men associated with him actually paid at that time $1,000,000 in cash to bind the bargain, and that failing to secure the necessary capital Mr. Carnegie profited by this particular transaction to the extent of $1,000,000. It was claimed by these men that the purchase could have been effected at that time at a lower scale of prices and that $30,000,000 in cash only would have been necessary, whereas a considerable greater amount of capital would be needed now. On the other hand interests in Wall street friendly to Mr. Morgan called attention to the fact that conditions have materially changed in the last two years, that this is the day of big things and that the men now reported to be anxious to secure control of the Carnegie interest are vastly stronger in the world of finance than the men who planned the great steel combine two years ago.

Some of the more conservative steel men claim that the entire transaction is very much like the so-called "St. Paul deal," and that the significance of the present negotiations is being greatly magnified. In these quarters the contention is that no actual sale or transfer of the control of Mr. Carnegie's immense interest is even contemplated but that what is aimed at is a perfect trade understanding, or in other words, a unification of interest whereby prices will be maintained and certain laws in respect to territorial rights laid down, these men, while friendly to Mr. Morgan, point out that he is at present largely concerned in railroad combination and other consolidations requiring already an immense outlay of capital. Hence, it is stated, the "community of interest" idea is the most feasible plan.

Those disposed, however, to discuss the detail proposition of the financing of the Carnegie-Morgan deal called attention to the fact that if Mr. Carnegie's holdings could be secured it would be necessary to acquire only about [illegible],000,000 of Mr. Carnegie's stock. Some of Mr. Carnegie's friends, however, expressed the opinion that Mr. Carnegie would not be disposed to stand by for the convenient conclusion of any such scheme as this but that if he were to sell any of his holdings he would insist upon the purchaser taking the entire amount of stock. That important developments are pending in the general steel trade situation seemed assured as no matter what shape the Carnegie-Morgan deal may assume. Today a conference was held in the office of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. between Mr. Morgan, Robert Bacon, of the Morgan banking house, Elbert H. Gary, president of the Federal Steel company, in which Mr. Morgan is a prominent figure, and G. G. Reed, president of the American Tin Plate company. Tomorrow it is understood, another meeting of the principal steel interests will be held somewhere in this city and according to some of the reports an advance in the price of steel rails and horsemer billets will be decided upon and announced.

The investigation will begin at 10 o'clock Friday morning

Denver, Feb 6—The members of the Denver police department are in a state of suppressed excitement over rumored formal charges that have been preferred by Detective McIlduff before the fire and police board. The charges are said to implicate several members of the department. He charges that one of the captains is a secret partner in two gambling houses of the city and that he blackmails saloon keepers and notorious women into forcing them to pay for their protection McIlduff is in turn charged with securing the release of two women who were under arrest by means of a fake bond. There is a tendency among the men around the headquarters who are implicated in the charges to shift the blame onto the shoulders of some one else It will no doubt require an investigation to arrive at the true state of affairs A report has it that a resolution will be introduced in the senate asking for an official investigation. HOW BIRDS HELP FARMERS.

The bulletins on birds and mammals published by the Biological survey at Washington correct widely prevalent errors as to the economic status of species that affect agricultural interests, and demonstrate the inefficiency and waste of many of bounty laws under which millions of dollars have been expended by the various states and territories without accomplishing the object for which they were intended

Many New Suits Filed in the Courts

There have been in the local courts during the past two years several echoes of the great Antlers fire of October 1, 1898.

Four more suits which grew out of that memorable incident in the history of Colorado Springs were filed in the district court yesterday. There are several plaintiffs in the four suits but the common object of the litigation is the Denver and Rio Grande Railway company and if all four suits should be successful and verdicts for the amounts demanded should be returned it would cost the D. and R. G. exclusive of costs about $60,000.

As would be understood from the fact that this amount is not larger, the losses which it is sought to compel the Denver and Rio Grande to pay are a great many small amounts by individual property owners whose goods were insured in the various plaintiff companies.

The suits are entitled as follows: Trans-Atlantic Insurance company and the North German Fire Insurance company vs. the Denver and Rio Grande Railway company, this suit is for $[illegible] and costs of suit. Sperry and Tuckerman vs. Denver and Rio Grande Railway company and the Newton Lumber company. This suit is for $30,205.54 and costs of suit. The Newton Lumber company is made a party defendant because it has interests which cannot be adjudicated except by the bringing of the suit and it declined to become a party plaintiff.

The fourth suit is entitled: North British and Mercantile Insurance company vs. Denver and Rio Grande Railway company, the El Paso Lumber company and the Law, Union and Crown Insurance company. It is for $27,258.73 and costs of suit. The El Paso Lumber company and the Law, Union and Crown Insurance company are made parties defendant because they declined to be made parties plaintiff.

The case of the city of Colorado Springs vs. Dennis, in which the defendant was charged with gambling and upon which charge a conviction was secured in police court several weeks ago, was tried in the county court yesterday on appeal.

At ten o'clock last night the jury reported to Judge Hubbard that there was a disagreement and that there was absolutely no chance of an agreement. Each man stating that there was no hope of a verdict, the judge discharged the jury and the case will have to come again for trial.

It was agreed by counsel before the trial of this case that the result should determine the three other cases growing out of the same raid. These cases are brought by the city against Stockbridge, Strachan and Williams.

A divorce suit was filed in the county court yesterday. It is entitled Leander E. Keiser vs. Barbara Keiser and the charge is desertion.

In the district court yesterday the case of Chas. Edwards vs. the Colorado Springs Rapid Transit company was on trial. It is a suit growing out of a collision between a car of the defendant company and a United States Mail wagon in which the plaintiff received injuries about the head and knee. He demands damages in the sum of $15000. The case is not concluded.

Perkins and McParlin, the attorneys, yesterday filed a suit against the Colorado Springs Rapid Transit company for damages in the sum of $3,000. The plaintiff in the action is Nellie I. Cook who alleges that she was the sufferer to that extent when she was struck and carried several feet along North Tejon street one evening several weeks ago. She was riding her wheel at the time.

Another suit filed yesterday by Perkins and McParlin is entitled P. Taylor Smith vs. Hassell Iron Works company. Plaintiff claims damage in the sum of $3,000 for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained through negligence on the part of defendant company.

Plaintiff alleges that he was compelled in the carrying out of instructions while in the employ of the defendant company, to walk along an impeded and unsafe walk and assist in carrying a pot of molten metal and that by reason of the defective condition of such walk he fell and spilled the molten metal upon his feet, by reason of which that member is permanently injured.

A third suit filed by Perkins and McParlin is entitled E. W. Conable vs. the Night Hawk Mining company, Phillip Starr, Clay H. White, Will Matthews, et al.

Plaintiff alleges that he is the rightful owner of 250,000 shares of Night Hawk stock, and the object of the suit is to compel the issue and transfer to him of this amount of stock in return for which he is to deed to the defendant company the E. W. Conable fractional lode mining claim and the Iron Rock lode claim.

Winter Resort for Invalids.

Old Mexico, with all its fascinations and attractions as a winter resort for invalids, has attracted little attention because of the discomforts encountered in the intolerable hotels of the country, and the lack of proper medical supervision. The splendid sanitarium recently opened at Guadalajara as a branch of the Battle Creek, Mich. institution removes this obstacle, and many are planning to avail themselves of the benefits offered by the unrivaled winter climate of Old Mexico in connection with sanitarium care.

CAPTAIN OF FIRE DEPT.

Capt. H. H. Thomson Advises the Use of Dr. Greene's Nervura.

This Wonderful Body Builder and Strength Restorer Should Be Used Now.

CAPT. H. H. THOMSON OF MINNEAPOLIS FIRE DEPT.

No occupation in the world requires more perfect nerve force and physical strength than is demanded of its members by a modern fire department. The members of this branch of the public service must be ready at all hours of the day or night and in all degrees of heat, cold or exposure, to answer the call of the public, and protect life and property. At all times they must have bodily strength and a clear brain. Without this we would never hear of the wonderful feats of bravery and rescue performed by them. Nothing in the world will build up strength like Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Captain Thomson's strong statement, which we publish herewith, carries weight, and is echoed everywhere by those who rely on Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, when disease attacks them, or they get run down in health which is so easy at this season of the year. There is no medicine in the world which will ward off attacks of the fatal [illegible] which is now so prevalent, and there is nothing which will drive it away so quickly or reinvigorate the body as well after the grip, as this famous remedy. Captain Thomson, whose address is 2406 Lincoln St., North East, Minneapolis, Minn., says:

"I am a great believer in the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy. It has been used in my house for years as a body builder, strength restorer and general family medicine. It never fails to give beneficial results. It strengthens the nerves and purifies the blood. As a health builder, I believe there is no medicine equal to Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy."

Remember that Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy is the prescription of a regular physician, Dr. Greene, who can be consulted absolutely free of charge either by mail or calling at his office, 35 W. 14th St., New York City. Consultation is absolutely free of charge. If you cannot call upon him at his office, write him a letter, telling all about your case, and you can be treated just as well at home as if you called in person. Remember his advice is absolutely free.

A DANGEROUS BILL.

A BILL that is certainly dangerous and ought not to become a law is House Bill No. 75 which is entitled "An act to define the powers and duties of city marshals in cities of the second class, and to provide for the appointment of police captains, lieutenants, sergeants, policemen, police clerks, detectives, jailers, special policemen and watchmen by city marshals in such cities."

The first section makes the city marshal in cities of the second class ex-officio chief of police, with full control of the police department and authority to prepare all necessary rules for the same. This is a change from the present law which makes the mayor the head of the police department and vests its control in a police board composed of the mayor and police committee of the city council.

Section 2 of the new bill gives the marshal power to appoint as many police captains, lieutenants, sergeants, policemen, police clerks, detectives, city jailers, special policemen and watchmen as the city council may deem necessary. Under the present law these persons are elected by the council.

The city marshal is also given by the proposed new law the power to suspend such appointees and it is further provided that in case of emergency he shall have power to appoint as many special policemen or watchmen as he may deem necessary.

If this bill were entitled "An act to promote ring rule in cities of the second class, and to perpetuate political rings in power," it would more nearly express the probable effects of the passage of this measure. It is the plain teaching of experience that it is not well to leave the head of the police department in absolute control of its affairs, and there ought always to be power of supervision vested in mayor and council.

The passage of this bill would do a great deal of harm in the cities of the state and would benefit only those who are interested in establishing rings for purposes inconsistent with the public welfare.

THE DANGER OF ANTI-IMPERIALISM.

OF MANY POLITICAL movements in American history few have come to more complete collapse and repudiation that the self-styled "anti-imperialism" which attempted to make noble patriots out of Tagal insurgents and which condemned with epithets of oppressor and murderer, Americans who were doing their duty as honest men and patriots.

The sentiments that have been expressed by such newspapers as the Springfield Republican and the New York Evening Post, and that have been voiced in congress by Senator Pettigrew and others do not command the approval of a considerable number of citizens in any state of the union, and the party which was misled into an approval of a doctrine that it adopted more to get votes than because its members actually believed in it was overwhelmingly defeated by Americans who have not doubted that our people and our government are honest, honorable and civilized.

The anti-imperialists have utterly failed to convince the people that "imperialism" is a danger, and the course suggested by them, has been repudiated by American voters. But there is a possibility that the anti-imperialist campaign may have an effect precisely the opposite of what they intended, and that this result may be unfortunate for the nation. It is difficult to control or limit popular movements, and this nation has come to be so disgusted with the anti-imperialists, so intolerant of their criticisms and so sceptical of their prophecies that there is already some evidence that some of our political leaders have been carried to the other extreme beyond the limits of prudence and safety.

The strength of the defense against the anti-imperial attacks lay in the fact that we were in the right path. We were not imperialists in any objectionable sense, we had no intention of becoming anything of the kind, and there was no reasonable evidence in support of the charge. The people knew this, and that is why the attack failed. But it should not be argued from this that the American people has approved imperialism or adopted it as a policy. It must not be inferred that our people will condone any violation of the rights of our own citizens or acts of injustice or oppression to the weak in other lands. If the reaction against anti-imperialism is to lead us into real imperialism, the American people will be as ready and as emphatic in its disapproval of the one as it has been of the other.

Those Republicans who in one way or another at the present time are warning their party against the dangers of this reaction are doing it a real service. Ex-President Harrison, Senator Hoar and Senator Teller are not men whom we would wish to see in control of national affairs, nor are they good leaders for the nation at the present time. But their opinions are worth consideration, and they are on the side of the boat that is dangerously vacant just now.

President McKinley is, so far as we are able to judge, absolutely right on these things. He is neither anti-imperialist nor imperialist. He is American, and his Philadelphia address delivered shortly after his reelection was a masterly declaration of the principles that command the support of the great majority of the American people, that are in accordance with our historical character and record, and that will prove to be the only grounds of safety for the party that desires to continue to receive the support of the American people. The performance in good faith of the pledge embodied in the Republican platform to do everything consistent with their welfare and our duties for the people of the Philippines, the scrupulous observance of our solemn promise to Cuba, ill-advised though that pledge may have been, and the preservation of our national character as friends of liberty throughout the world and invariable opponents of criminal aggression are parts of our national policy that must not be forgotten or contravened.

A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF SOLDIERS.

CAPTAIN W. CROZIER of the United States army, writing in the North American Review for February, gives an interesting account of his observation of the American soldiers who were engaged in the march to Peking, as compared with the Russians, French, British and Japanese who accompanied them on that journey.

As might be expected the comparison is a mixture of praise and blame, for there never was an officer who was convinced that any army was all that it ought to be, and it is usually the case that where men of different nations are brought together, each finds something to learn from the other.

Briefly summarized, Captain Crozier's conclusions are that in the character of their material, animate and inanimate, the troops of the United States excelled. They were better and more intelligent soldiers, they were better fed, better clothed and better equipped than were those of the other nationalities. But in all the results of liberal organization, training and stimulus, the product of national interest in and fostering encouragement of the military arm, they were outclassed by the forces of the other nations.

The experiences of our army officers in China, as well as in the Philippines and during the war with Spain, were taken into consideration in the framing of the new army bill that has recently become a law. The lessons of the field in the past three years were not less important than those gained in the camps of instruction and mobilization. In all of these the defects of a system which this country had outgrown and which had also become obsolete owing to various improvements, were evident.

The campaign in China was the last one to be undertaken under the old system, and it is to be hoped that the newer one now embodied in law will result in correcting the principal defects of our army while retaining all the good qualities of the first-class American fighting man.

THE STRIKE SETTLED.

THE SETTLEMENT of the local coal strike will be a matter of general satisfaction to the general public, as well as to the parties more immediately concerned. The fairness of the final compromise speaks well for the good sense of both parties to the agreement, though it may lead one to wonder why a settlement was not sooner reached.

With this interruption to its progress out of the way Colorado Springs may continue the rapid course of her industrial development.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

BECAUSE the United States consented to a temporary arrangement or modus vivendi with Canada upon the Alaskan boundary, the president was bitterly criticised because he had given away valuable American territory for nothing. How groundless were such criticisms is shown by the recently filed report of the joint commission appointed two years ago to survey this boundary line.

The report of the commission, which is unanimous, gives an account of its work. It has "erected substantial monuments at frequent intervals along the line described in the treaty with Russia, which they found to be clear in almost every case. There is nothing further to be done on this subject until both governments agree to a permanent survey, for it was understood to be only temporary. It is probable, however, that its accuracy will never be questioned, and it probably will stand indefinitely as neither government has good reason to be dissatisfied with the conduct of its representatives or the decision of the commission. The United States gets about nine-tenths of the disputed territory, and Canada about one-tenth, but by the terms of the treaty Americans who live north of the line suffer no diminution of the rights and privileges they now enjoy.

"The Chilkoot and White passes are the actual or practical boundaries. The Canadians claimed the whole of Lynn canal. The United States disputed their title, and asserted that the line ran around the head of that body of water. The new surveys not only justified the contention of this government, but take the boundary twenty-five miles north of the canal, and above the canoe navagation."

It is to be hoped that the report of this commission will remove this vexatious boundary dispute from the domain of active international politics. The United States has no reason to feel dissatisfied with the result, and as the report of the commission was unanimous, it is not probable that there will remain any basis for a further claim on the part of Canada that plain words do not imply their ordinary meaning.

UP TO THE LIMIT.

IT IS SATISFACTORY to know that there are limits of disloyalty beyond which the Arkansas legislature will not go.

Last Saturday the following resolution was introduced in the house:

"Whereas, This house, by resolution, extended sympathy to Aguinaldo and the Filipinos, now engaged in killing American soldiers and in open rebellion against the government of the United States; and

"Whereas, We learn that 'Crazy Snake,' chief of the Creek Indians, following the noble example of Aguinaldo, has incited many Indians to follow him and engage in the same pastime as Aguinaldo—to kill white Americans and destroy the authority of the United States; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Democratic majority of the house of representatives of the state of Arkansas, that the Aguinaldo resolution be and is hereby amended so as to include Chief 'Crazy Snake' and the Creek Indians, who also object to being governed without their consent, and any other outlaws who may hereafter engage in murder, pillage and treason against the United States and its flag."

After a lively debate the resolution was voted down, but not until it had served the purpose of calling attention of the members of the majority to their inconsistency.

The Rio Grande Western railroad has issued a very attractive little pamphlet entitled, "Salt Lake City, the 'Zion' of the New World." The special occasion for its publication at the present time is the meeting of the Society of the Army of the Philippines which is to be held in Salt Lake City, August 13, to 15. The people in the Mormon capital are considerably stirred up over the matter. It is learned that the citizens have organized finance and entertainment committees and are now engaged in detailing the plan for the reception of all who may come. It will be a grand ovation to the heroes of Manila. August 13 is the anniversary of the fall of Manila and the demonstration at Great Salt Lake by the famous Utah batteries will rival the original scene. An effort is being made with assurances of success, to bring the Astor batteries, and as many of the volunteer regiments to Utah on this occasion as possible. When the programme has been finally completed it will give assurance of a very warm time in the City of the Saints. Gen Greene and other leaders will attend.

Latest reports from the Cuban constitutional convention indicate that it is very evenly divided on important matters engaging its attention. The provision for the election of the president by an electoral college similar to that of the United States was carried by a vote of 15 to 14, and a provision that would make Gomez eligible to the presidency was postponed by the same narrow majority.

FROM THE PRESS OF THE NATION.

National Irrigation.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

Congress has at length taken up the subject of the reclamation of the arid portion of our national domain, and while no legislation is to be expected at this session, except the usual appropriations for surveys and investigations, the tone of the discussion indicates that public sentiment is ripe for beginning construction. A small portion of the eastern farming community seem to fear that the opening of these new lands will impair the value of eastern farms, but as the secretary of the interior lately pointed out in an official communication to a congressional committee: "The creation of these homes * * * will in no way reduce the value of the lands now cultivated. The crops produced in the arid regions are entirely distinct in their nature from those of the humid east, and seek other markets." The secretary might have added that under no probable limit of national expenditure will land be made ready for homes as fast as the increase of population provides new people to occupy them.

There are few who object to the expenditure as a "bad precedent." It is far too late to raise such an issue. The principle of improving the national domain at the national expense was established when the first jetty was built to protect a harbor or the first snag taken from a navigable stream. More than that, from the foundation of the government the United States has been selling the national domain and putting the money into the general treasury, from which some part has gone to improve the harbors of Atlantic cities and the rivers of states which never had any distinct ownership in the lands from whose sale they derived benefit. Now that the time has come, shall no part of the money derived from the sale of these lands be employed for the benefit of the states in which they are situated? The people of the United States have received hundreds of millions of dollars from the sale of public lands. Even now, after having given away and while continuing to give away enormous quantities of land, the sales continue. During the last fiscal year the cash sales of land by the United States amounted to $2,-[illegible] acres from states wholly or in part arid. These sales have continued [illegible] and will continue for years longer, and shall not those arid states by the sale of whose lands the national treasury is replenished receive some benefit from that treasury? Shall they not at least receive the poor boon of an advance to reclaim the dry land to be repaid by the settlers as they take it? There can be but one answer to these questions. The nation has no moral right to give away all the land in these states which is readily susceptible of tillage and leave the state treasuries poverty-stricken by reason of great areas of public land which pay no taxes and which the government refuses to make habitable by national improvement. The public has recognized the justice of these claims. The sons of the objecting farmers of the east are eager to get homes upon these lands, and the [illegible] that should afford a market for their products. When these states get all that they ask they will not begin to get back what they have directly contributed to the treasury of the nation from the single source of the lands within their boundaries.

The Next State.

(Los Angeles Times.)

The convention that has just been held in Guthrie marks the beginning of the practical work in favor of securing the early admission of Oklahoma as a state. Hon. F. E. Gillett voiced the feeling of the convention when he said that the people of Oklahoma were anxious for statehood on any conditions which congress would think fit to impose. Resolutions prepared by a majority of the convention asked for the admission of the territory to statehood at the earliest practicable day, "with such boundaries as congress, in its wisdom, may see fit to establish." To this declaration was added an amendment that if, in congress' opinion, it shall be deemed desirable at the same or any future time to attach any part or all of the Indian Territory to the state of Oklahoma, the same shall meet our hearty approval." The majority report, with this addendum, was adopted by a unanimous vote of the convention. A committee was appointed by the convention, which is to organize immediately, and begin an active campaign for statehood.

It is to be hoped that the desire of the Oklahomans will be gratified. The chances for admission in the present congress are, of course, now rather poor. Only about a month of the life of this congress remains, and many important measures are still pending. The present probability is that some of these measures are still pending. The present probability is that some of these measures will fail for lack of time for their consideration. This has been a remarkably brief session. No short session of congress in a quarter of a century has been confronted with the necessity of doing so much work of the first importance. Much of this work has already been accomplished, or is in a stage which insures its accomplishment before the end of the term. Some measures which cannot safely be left to lay over until next December are still to be acted on. This renders an extra session inevitable, and the session will probably begin in the latter part of March or early in April. The members of congress, almost without exception, are averse to an extra session, but if one has to be held they would prefer having it come as early in the year as possible. The president undoubtedly stands with them in this idea.

Here is where Oklahoma's chance for admission will come. The admission measures will probably fail of consideration in this session in any case. The time at the disposal of congress is short, but in the new session of the next congress there will be ample time to deal with all measures of urgent importance. Oklahoma has 400,000 inhabitants, for the few thousands she was below that mark at the time the census was taken just June have undoubtedly been more than furnished since then. It has a property valuation of $75,000,000 and has 125,000 children in its public schools. It has fifteen national and eighty-five territorial banks and has a church for every 400 of its population. Unite[illegible] the Indian Territory, Oklahoma would have a population of about 800,000 and would be as rich in mineral resources as almost any state in the union. There are many states which are below Oklahoma, as it at present exists, in inhabitants and in value of property. When the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations are thrown open to settlement next summer its population will be suddenly and largely increased. The claims which Oklahoma presents will appeal powerfully to congress. It is safe to predict that Oklahoma will add another star to the flag by July 4 next.

Arch D. Mitchell Fatally Injured

One of the saddest runaway accidents that has ever occurred in Colorado Springs took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the 900 block on South Cascade avenue.

Arch D. Mitchell, a driver for the Troy Hand laundry, one of the best known and most popular laundrymen in the city, was struck on the head by a horse attached to an elite laundry wagon, the latter being a runaway, and Mitchell received a fracture of the skull from which it is expected that he will die.

Fred W. Linsal, another well-known laundryman, was the driver of the runaway horse. He was leaving his own wagon, at a point near Cimarron street, when the step broke and he was thrown to the ground almost under his horse's feet. He managed to get out from in front of the wheel of his wagon but the horse, which is a spirited animal, had started and before Linsal could get to his feet had passed out of his reach.

Mitchell was just about a block farther south on Cascade avenue. He saw the horse coming with the elite laundry wagon and immediately prepared to stop it if possible. The avenue is very broad and in heading off the horse Mitchell caused it to make a complete turn and start again north on Cascade. Linsal had followed his horse as rapidly as possible and before the animal had proceeded very far northward it was again headed off and again turned to the south. This time it did not turn back when headed off by Mitchell but attempted to pass him. He evidently expected that the latter would turn away from him, which it did not, but rather plunged toward him and he was struck a terrific blow and hurled to the ground. The horse stepped upon him and then dragged the wagon over him.

Linsal picked him up and had him removed immediately to his home at 414 S. Cascade. Mitchell was perfectly conscious at the time, but lapsed into unconsciousness after about 15 minutes and had not been conscious again at the latest report last night. Dr. S. D. Smith, Shollenberger and Martin were called and ascertained that there was a fracture in the skull so serious that there was little chance for recovery.

Mitchell was still alive, however, at a late hour last night. His friends refused to believe that there was no chance for his life, but the physicians could offer no encouragement.

Extra Provisions in The Miners' Contract

The strike situation in the city is much relieved by the settlement of the coal controversy. The fight is evidently on with the plumbers. So far as could be learned no steps were taken to bring about a settlement. The masters say that they are going right along and employ men where they can find them.

In the coal situation yesterday everything was lovely. All the men went back to work and there is plenty of work for them. The operators reported that they are knocking the coal down at a great rate and a thousand tons a day will be coming out soon now. The coal supply in the city was not very large and this will be happy news to many.

The agreement signed January 31 holds good, but yesterday morning the following the two coal companies, Mr. Duncan for the United Mine Workers and two members of the local union. The provisions are supplemental agreement are as follows:

First—And it is further agreed that an advance of ten cents per day be paid all underground day laborers, namely, from $2.50 to $2.60 per day.

Second—That this contract shall be in [illegible] and including the 30th day of September, 1901.

Third—It is further agreed that on the 5th day of August, 1901, at 10 a. m., the operators and miners, by their district executive board, shall meet in the city of Colorado Springs and go into session for the purpose of formulating a new contract.

Fourth—Each year to terminate on the 30th day of September.

Fifth—It is further agreed that there shall be no discrimination either on the part of the company nor of their employes, and that all of the old employes shall be allowed to resume work without question, and the union guarantees protection to those who have been working during the strike from insult and injury.

Sixth—That in the event of complaints arising as to the construction of this agreement, the same shall be referred to the pit committee, and they, with the superintendent of the company, shall endeavor to effect an amicable settlement, and in case they should fail to agree, the whole matter shall be referred to the officers of the company and the district executive board of the United Mine Workers of America. And in all cases the mine shall continue [illegible] and the decision rendered in all cases shall be final and binding.

W. R. C. DAY

Tuesday was a notable day for the women of the Grand Army Relief Corps of this city as well as for many of the old soldiers. At the regular meeting in the afternoon a number of visitors were present, including Mrs. Camilla Maulsby of Victor and Mrs. Alnslee of New York. Following the regular business, memorial services were held in honor of Mrs. Louise Sherman and Mrs. Amanda Vest. The services were beautiful and impressive. They were attended by Comrades Vest and Sherman, Miss Sherman and a number of the G. A. R. Eloquent addresses were delivered by Mrs. Dwinell and Mrs. Farrar on the lives of the departed members.

In the evening there was an enjoyable social function, the W. R. C. ladies tendering a banquet to the Grand Army men, the Sons of Veterans and the drum corps. The tables were loaded with good things to eat, and after the 300 guests were fed the floor was cleared and the young people indulged in dancing. Much credit is due the committee in charge for success of the evening.

TRADES COUNCIL TO CITY COUNCIL

At its meeting last evening the Trades council had the largest representation of the local unions that it has had for many weeks. There were eleven different trades represented at the meeting.

The only item of public interest in the meeting was the action of the council in passing a resolution in which they protest against the city's entering competition with the teamsters. The city, it is claimed, is hauling the gravel out of the exca-

MELEE MILITAIRE WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The melee militaire, which was given last evening under the auspices of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, proved a great success. It was certainly a pleasure to a majority of the throng of four hundred people present, many of whom had never seen some of the feats presented.

The first thing on the programme was a bayonet contest between two members of company D, Neely and Gossard. The latter proved to be the winner by a score of 9 to 6.

A contest with foils for points between J. G. Gress and H. Homan was the next thing on the list. Gregg was declared the winner by a score of 7 to 4. The contest was very exciting and showed good guard work on the part of Homan.

The next event announced was the first pull in the tug of war. The Reed Hose team pulled against the Woodmen and although the contest was a draw, the Woodmen did the best work as they have had no practice and are a good deal the lighter of the two teams. In the second pull a draw was declared, but in the third and last pull the Reeds won by an inch and a half. L. H. Skinner was the judge, and declared it one of the prettiest contests he ever saw.

A four-round boxing match between McCune and Cadwell resulted in a draw. Both men were very clever and light on their feet, although McCune seemed to have better wind and science.

After this two little negro boys put on the gloves and had a lively set-to for three rounds. They caused a good deal of laughter by the way in which they pounded each other around, and at the end of the last round Peter Jackson, Jr., was declared the winner.

The next number was a foil contest for points between Bryan and Jeancon. When the score was 5 to 4 in favor of Bryan, Jeancon received a thrust in the left arm which broke his opponent's foil and cut a gash in his arm. He therefore gave Bryan the other point and the latter was declared the winner.

A very exciting event was the broadsword contest between Messrs. Frost and Zimmerman. It was well and evenly contested. The final score was 8 for Frost to 6 for Zimmerman.

The novel event of the night and the closing one was the "melee militaire," in which teams representing the Uniform Rank and Company D of the state militia took part. There were five on a side and they wore helmets with plumes in them and carried sticks. The game is to knock the paper plumes from your competitor's head. It proved very amusing and was worth the price of admission. The contest finally narrowed down to Bennett, the captain of the Uniform Rank, and Davis, captain of the militia. Bennett finally won.

The entertainment was under the direction of Ivan De Malchin, who is so successfully conducting a fencing school here this winter. It reflects credit on him and his assistant, Mr. Sutton.

THE HATCHET BRIGADE IN COLORADO SPRINGS

The California Oil Development company, consisting of the Three States, Sunset, Vortex, Bachelor's and Section Six oil companies, are not operating on leased land, royalty or otherwise, but they own their own land, the deeds of which are a matter of record. Again, they own from 240 to 1,640 acres for each company, so when it comes to buying stock you have a direct ownership in the land itself—something tangible, something besides something on paper. Investors should bear this in mind when it comes to paying out money. One usually likes to get something of a positive, lasting value beside merely the stock. It gives the latter a backing that rented or leased land cannot give. See? Do you understand? Keep this matter before you. It's a better proposition than Mrs. Nation tackling a barrel of whisky with her little hatchet. Fact is, no title is as defective as one of those barrels after an attack from a brigade of Kansas hatchet-wielders. And all this serves to explain why the good oil investors of this city have been hacking and elbowing one another in their onset to the California Oil Development Co.'s office, room 8 Giddings block. The limited supply of treasury stock in each company is going splendidly and testifies to the solidity of the corporations, and, as can be shown, to the complete satisfaction of all who call.

Remember, present prices will not remain long. One company has advanced its stock 20 cents since then.

We have diagrams and photos of all the oil lands in Kern county. Our organizations are right. Our lands are right. Our officers are prominent, capable, unimpeachable and right. Our prices are right, and all who have invested and those who may will find that they acted right. Room 8, Giddings block.

TURNER'S MISHAP

The following is from the Denver Post of last evening and it is good enough to be true:

J. D. Turner of Manitou is an ass. He left Manitou early yesterday morning for Denver to arrange some of the details for the Elks' fair. He packed his grip very carefully with a bottle of hair oil, another quart bottle of shoe polish, a night shirt, a bunch of cards with which to play solitaire, a tooth brush and several other articles distinctively masculine. On the top of the grip he placed a small stock for his little granddaughter.

When Mr. Turner boarded the cars at Colorado Springs he got a choice seat and calmly settled down. He was disturbed in a few minutes by a dream of loveliness in delicately tinted shirt waist and ladies' made skirt.

She was looking for a seat, and Mr. Turner fell over himself in getting up to offer him. He mumbled some excuses about wanting to see a fellow in the smoking car and in the excitement forgot his grip. He didn't think of the loss until the train pulled into Denver. Then he ran back to the seat that had been occupied by the fair one, and, according to the story he is now telling, was surprised to find two grips as identical as two peas.

"Well, it's funny what an effect this attitude has on a fellow," muttered the Manitou Elk, as he counted the two grips to make sure his eyes did not deceive him. Then he grabbed one, thinking it was his property, and walked off with a courteous bow to the lady. He got off the train at Littleton to call on his daughter, Mrs. Edward Cavender, and was soon sitting in the warm parlor with his little granddaughter on his knee.

"Wait, little one, grandpa has something for you," he began as he reached for his grip to get the little book. All eyes were wide open in expectation. With a snap and a jerk the top of the grip flew open and there were pink and tan spots on Mr. Turner's face in an instant.

"Why, wottell," he began as he picked out a lavender shirt waist and then some feminine hosiery. "Why, mother must have been having fun with me," he stammered.

Then he continued the unpacking of the valise and finally had to desist as the shocks became more and more loaded with voltage. The last article he pulled out was covered with lace and ruffles and then the Manitou Elk had enough.

The grip was carefully laid away for future dissection in the presence of women only and Mr. Turner was permitted to again. All he could say was that the occupant of his seat had told him her name was Snyder, but this story was taken with a grain of salt.

With [illegible] he set out the pilot from Manitou, "if that woman has as little use for my nightshirt as I have for some of the things in her grip I will trade the whole lot for the bottle of cough syrup she walked away with."

Mr. Turner left for home last night, but he will be back again early next week to complete his labors in regard to the fair. He promises to chain himself to his grip next trip and avoid explanations at home.

Probably the worst feature of the entire matter is the fact that Mr. Turner and President Slocum of Colorado college are "doubles." The night the president was initiated in the Elks the members got Mr. Turner by mistake and gave him a double dose of the ceremonies, much to their astonishment, when documents were produced from pockets to establish which was the other. Now Mr. Turner is afraid the strange young lady will think Prof. Slocum has her grip and that the latter uses the particular kind of cough remedy and hair oil contained in the bottles wrapped up in the masculine nightshirt. The possibilities for unpleasantness and mistakes seem limitless.

LIQUID AIR

Benjamin Franklin remarked just before his death in 1790, that he would like to come back to the earth 100 years later to see the changes which would take place in the interval. If Ben were alive today he would not only see the results of tremendous strides in electricity which he himself drew from the clouds, but would see other great discoveries in science, among which one of the most wonderful is liquid air, which, at the beginning of the 20th century, promises to revolutionize some lines of industry. For blasting purposes, liquid air is destined to become a great factor in the mining industries of the world, where cheap and safe explosives of high power are required. The seemingly contradictory qualities of liquid air make it a curiosity of science. It will freeze alcohol or mercury. It will freeze the flame over which it is set, but will boil violently on a cake of ice. It freezes mercury as hard as iron. It makes a nerve fire with tin cans as fuel. The field is the more fascinating that its future as an industrial agent is all before it. It is in much the same stage of development that electricity was 25 years ago. Some 23 or 30 of these wonderful experiments will be performed by Professor Palmer at the Temple theater next Monday night.

Colorado Springs Testimony

WILLAMETTE AVE.

Mr. J. W. Brauer, of 222 Willamette avenue, says: "After tinkering with sure cures for kidney trouble, after taking medicine from doctors for my kidneys, and after being compelled to give up a good business because I could not stand the work on the wagon, when Doan's Kidney Pills procured of Jones & Wellington Drug Co., North Tejon street, cured me, I am only too pleased to let the people of Colorado Springs who suffer with kidney complaint and its companion, backache, know of a remedy upon which they can depend."

VALLEY STREET

Mr. M. T. White, of 906 Valley street, retired farmer, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of terrible distress from backache and difficulty with the kidney secretions. I could hardly turn in bed and the too frequent action of the secretions was very annoying. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Jones & Wellington Drug Co. store, North Tejon street, and took them according to directions. I felt better in a short time and was finally cured."

CIMARRON STREET

Mr. James Niles, of 15 East Cimarron street, carpenter, says: "During the fall of 1898 and the winter of 1899 an attack of headache persistently clung to me. If I had taken it in time I might have checked it in its earliest stages, but I neglected it, and when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Jones & Wellington Drug Co.'s store, North Tejon street, there was not the slightest doubt but some derangement of the kidneys caused the annoyance. As the treatment cured me, I am only too pleased to indorse the remedy."

Get what you ask for. Get DOAN'S. Don't accept something "just as good." Most druggists sell Doan's Kidney Pills and will give you what you call for. Some may endeavor to substitute an article they make more profit on. Insist on having the genuine. Price 50 cents. Manufactured by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hagerman and the Great Pecos Valley

The Carlsbad, N. M., Argus had some remarks in its last number regarding Mr. J. J. Hagerman that will be of interest to a majority of people here. It is silent as to the purchase out of the management of the Pecos Valley road, which has been purchased by the Santa Fe. It is preceded by a sketch of the early life of Mr. Hagerman, taken from the Colorado Springs Gazette of late date. The article from the Argus is as follows:

In February, 1889, Mr. Hagerman had his attention first called to the Pecos Valley of New Mexico by R. W. Tansill, then also a resident of Colorado Springs. Mr. Tansill was the heaviest stockholder of the original irrigation company, organized by Charles W. Greene, and had personally inspected the valley the previous autumn, and was so favorably impressed by the country's great possibilities, both climatic and as an irrigation enterprise, that he immediately became its most enthusiastic supporter and advocate.

On Mr. Tansill's representations re-inforced by interviews with C. B. Eddy, C. W. Greene and others, interested in the scheme, Mr. Hagerman decided to investigate the matter for himself. In April or May of that same year, he made a visit to the valley, and how he regarded the outlook is conclusively shown by the headlong energy with which he threw himself into the development of the country's virgin resources.

Under the spur of Mr. Hagerman's push and money the irrigation works were hurried to completion in 1890, and the Pecos Valley railroad was built into the town of Eddy in February, 1891—just two years after Mr. Hagerman's notice was called to the valley's existence. Development work went on steadily and with most flattering prospects for several years, and the place that had once been either a waste of sand or a tangle of mesquite or greasewood commenced to blossom into one of the fairest and most prosperous irrigation districts in America.

But misfortune began to gather over the entire country and the financial panic caught this section at the most critical stage of its development, and it was only by the most herculean efforts and unlimited faith of Mr. Hagerman that this great enterprise did not go to utter ruin. During the dark days of 1893-96, the people of this section looked to Mr. Hagerman as their only means of financial salvation, and he responded nobly to their appeals. The utmost skill of one of the ablest promoters the west ever possessed, reinforced by the unstinted expenditure of his own private fortune and splendid credit, is all that saved the Pecos Valley from almost entire reversion to its primal desert state. It was a back-breaking load for Mr. Hagerman, and anyone with a wink less of pluck and endurance would have broken down under the strain.

But he stayed with the country—this was his chief interest in life and its success was nearer to his heart than his own private interests. Finding the load too heavy to bear alone he decided to divide the burden of responsibility by abandoning the lower valley to the bond holders of the irrigation company represented by R. W. Tansill; the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement company was thrown into court and Mr. Tansill appointed receiver of the property in July, 1898. Mr. Hagerman's fight against the financial depression was no passive, defensive affair. In 1895 he succeeded in raising money to extend the railroad from Carlsbad to Roswell, a distance of about [illegible] miles, as the necessity of securing markets for the products of the valley was clearly shown by this piece of work. At a time when capital was afraid of any investment less sure than government bonds, Mr. Hagerman succeeded, by his own individual influence and work, in raising enough money to build seventy-six miles of new road—and only 105 miles was built during the year in the whole United States.

With Mr. A. S. Goetz and Mr. Hagerman also induced the Milwaukee capitalists to erect a beet sugar factory in Carlsbad—another achievement to be proud of at such a time.

When prosperity commenced to smile again all over the union, Mr. Hagerman was one of the first to take advantage of the returning confidence of capital in 1896. he raised sufficient money to build the extension of the Pecos Valley and Northeastern railway from Roswell to Amarillo, there connecting with the Santa Fe system and the Fort Worth and Denver City road, making the valley branch line into so important a through line that the Atchison people commenced negotiations at once that resulted in its control of the road. However, it was not until some few weeks ago that the Santa Fe management at last secured control, buying out Mr. Hagerman's interest in the Pecos system. It is said that the purchasing road paid Mr. Hagerman a large price as the property is very important and valuable to the future plans of the Santa Fe, and that thereby he is almost recouped for the immense outlay he has made in his different valley enterprises.

Mr. Hagerman's retirement from the active management of the Pecos system does not mean any diminution of his interests in the Pecos Valley. This child of his own pioneer will still be his care and here in its broad bosom he will probably remain until death calls him. He will build a fine home on his immense property at South Springs, and devote himself to the recreative business of raising pure-bred stock for the market, the needs rest and conference from the hard run of business, and will hereafter lead a far less active and strenuous life.

The Pecos Valley owes a vaster debt of gratitude to J. J. Hagerman than to any other one man in the world, and the Argus but voices the sentiment of almost every man therein when it so declares. This universal feeling has prompted this article throughout and in conclusion, the Argus for itself and staff, wishes to return thanks for manifold benefits, and join the great throng of grateful Pecos Valleyites in wishing James J. Hagerman all health, happiness and prosperity in the future.

CALL FOR CONVENTION

Of the American Cattle Growers' Association.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 31, 1901.

The first annual convention of the American Cattle Growers association is hereby called to meet at Denver, Colorado, at the Tabor Grand opera house, at 10 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, March 5, 1901, for the purpose of effecting permanent organization, adopting a constitution and by-laws and for such general business as may properly come before the convention.

The present basis of representation of this association is individual membership, and any citizen, a cattle grower and owner, is eligible for membership upon payment of initiation fee of $5, and will be entitled to one vote in this convention.

The order of business for the first convention shall be as follows: Convention called to order by the president; roll call; address of welcome, response to address of welcome, appointment of committees; general business.

This convention is the result of a meeting of a large number of prominent growers of cattle from many states and territories, held in Salt Lake City on the evening of January 17, 1901, to consider the question whether there should be formed a general organization to promote and protect the industry of cattle growing. The great interest felt in the question was manifest by the large and enthusiastic attendance, wherein every state and territory, but one, west of the Mississippi river was represented. After a full argument it was unanimously decided that The American Cattle Growers' Association should be created and that its membership was to be made up exclusively of cattle growers. Officers and an executive committee, representing each state, to hold until the first convention of the association were selected. It was determined that the first convention should be held in Denver, as above, and that at that meeting the organization should be perfected by the selection of permanent officers and executive committee, and the adoption of a constitution and by-laws; and thereupon the convention should proceed with such business as might be called before it.

The American Cattle Growers' association was formed in full accord with the main object of the National Live Stock association, then in session at Salt Lake City. All other live stock interests have exclusive national organizations except the cattle growers through which to advance their interests. The cattle growers, naturally, wished and determined to have such an organization of their own, which will take all action, offensive or defensive, to protect any interest peculiar to their industry. It is earnestly hoped that all cattle growers will join this association.

The present idea is for individual membership to form the basis of this association, which will give a small cattle grower as much voice on the floor of the convention hall as a large owner, but this will be finally settled at the first convention. The only qualification necessary for membership is to be a cattle grower and owner.

At present membership may be secured by sending your name and address to the secretary, Union Stock Yards, Denver, Colorado, or to your state committeeman (or personally at the convention), together with $5, the initiation fee that was accepted at the meeting at which this association formed its temporary organization. It is expected that the railways will make a greatly reduced rate for the round trip to Denver.

This association is to protect and advance the interests of all cattle growers, large or small, equally, and we want them all on the membership roll. It is especially desired that a large attendance be had at the coming convention at Denver, and any cattle grower who can possibly come is urged to do so. They may be assured that the proceedings of the convention will be highly beneficial and their stay in Denver exceedingly pleasant.

By order of the Executive Committee,
H. H. Robinson, President.
A. E. de Ricqles, Secretary.

Amusements.

"CARMEN" TONIGHT.

This evening comes the much-heralded contralto, Collamarini, whom Col. W. A. Thompson presents with his famous Boston Lyric Opera company in "Carmen." This engagement may be said to be the most important that Manager Nye has offered during the present season.

Collamarini, the star of Col. Thompson's organization comes here with a record of success wherever she has appeared that indicates that the claim that she is "the greatest living Carmen" is not an overdrawn statement. The critics in every city in which she has appeared have been unanimous in her praise and the public has shown its appreciation of her superb talent by crowding the theaters.

The claim is made for her that she not only is possessed of a wonderful voice, but is a magnificent actress as well, a combination of quality which is found in musical artists only too rarely. She is said not to be a "footlight singer" but rather remains constantly within the picture, subordinating everything to the portrayal of the character. It is this that makes her performance of "Carmen" such a triumph

The role of the Seville cigarette girl is essentially one for an actress. To be able to sing the score is not enough. The "Carmen" of the story, and it is Collamarini's ability to fulfill this requirement that has made her present tour under Col. Thompson's direction such an unqualified success.

Her support, too, is said to be excellent, which again is something too seldom can be said of a stellar organization. It is, however, one of Col. Thompson's fixed policies never to sacrifice the strength of his organization for the sake of exploiting the talents of a single artist. In her performance here this evening Collamarini will be surrounded by the same splendid organization that has made the names "Col W. A. Thompson" and "Boston Lyric Opera Co." famous from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. Every member of the company is a tried and proved artist and the chorus is said to be better than ever, having been specially strengthened for the production of grand opera which Col. Thompson is giving this season.

Of the other foreign members of the organization Signor Russo's ability as a tenor is too well known to require discussion here. Of Alessandroni, the baritone, not so much is known, but since his appearance with Collamarini he has received much praise and no criticism.

Taking everything into consideration, Collamarini's reputation, Col. Thompson's well known attention to the smallest detail, and the strength of the Boston Lyric Opera company the performance of "Carmen" here tonight should be the best ever given in Colorado Springs.

AL FIELD'S MINSTRELS.

There is no lack of comedy element in the performance of the Al. G. Field greater minstrels who come to the opera house Saturday, with all the superb singing and strong vaudeville features which Al. G. Field has injected into the performance, there is an unusually ample ingredient of comedy. Al. G. Field himself supplies much of this and he is assisted by that always funny young man Arthur Rigby. Then there is that old favorite, Tommy Donnelly and that always welcome visitor, Dbe Quigley—there is never any let up in the fun. They are introduced first as visitors to the big French carnival, "A Night in Paris During the Exposition." We see Rigby in a monologue which is twentieth century from stem to gudgeon and Quigley is his best known character, aptly described as the "Dancing Momus." Then there are Weston Greve and Staats in a musical act in which music and comedy are blended in just the right proportions. Of course there are plenty of other features vocal and instrumental, music of the highest order ever offered by a minstrel company, including Keyes and McDonald, grotesque athletes; Pascatel, a European importation whose wonderful posturing acts are entirely new to this country; a tribe of Marcellus acrobats, etc. All these are included in the company.

Ladies' and Children's Garments.

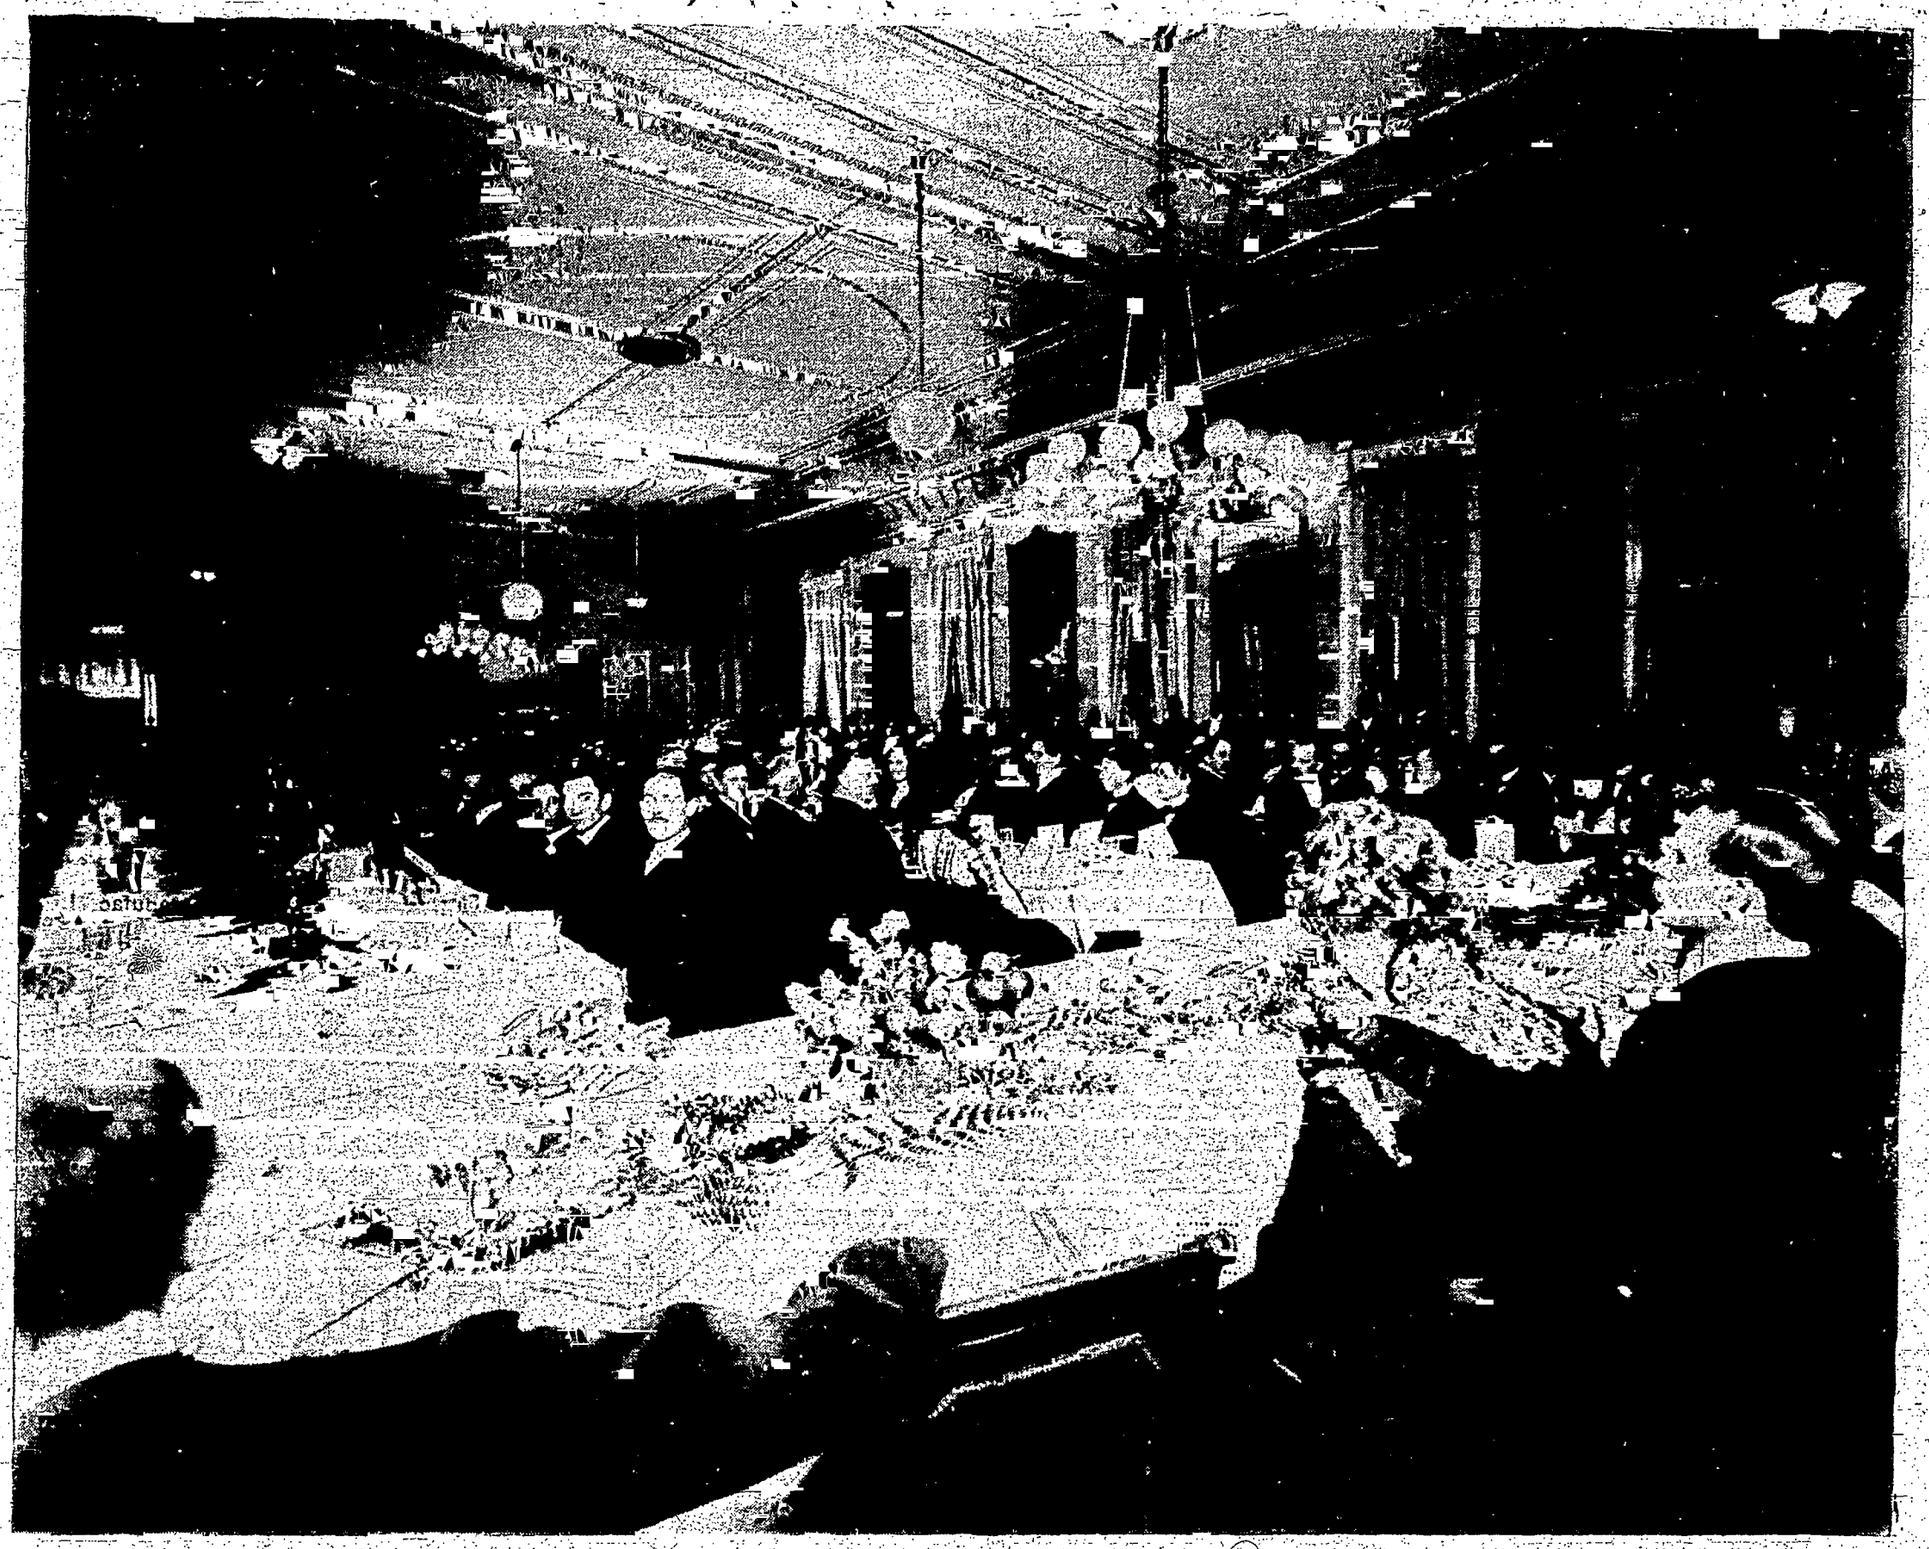
The photograph below was taken by flashlight just after the guests had been seated at the table at the banquet of the Republican Club of Colorado. It shows only about one-quarter of the dining room, but the reader can get from it some idea of the inspiring scene on that night.



PART OF BANQUET HALL

REPUBLICAN CLUB BANQUET

HELD FEB 2 1901

The first annual banquet of the Republican Club of Colorado held at the Windsor hotel, Denver, on last Saturday night, is universally pronounced the finest banquet of any kind ever held in the state. Every inch of available space in the large dining room (the largest dining hall in Denver) was occupied. The best people of the state were there. Chronic officeholders and professional politicians were not invited and were not there.

The leading business men and women of Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Manitou, Montrose, Loveland, Greeley, Las Animas, Lake City, Grand Junction, Leadville, and in fact of every city [illegible] were present.

From Denver alone some 300 representative people bought tickets and attended. Among them were David May, of the May Clothing company; D. H. Dougan, cashier of the National Bank of Commerce; Thomas Keeley, cashier of the First National bank; J. S. Appel, the leading cloak merchant; M. S. Appel, a leading broker; Simon Guggenheim, of the Philadelphia smelter; Edgar L. Newhouse, manager of the Philadelphia smelter; William Scott Lee, a leading private banker and investment broker; E. Monash, proprietor of the Fair; E. L. Scholtz, the leading druggist of Denver; Philip Feldhauser, the leading carpet dealer of Denver; Wolfe Londoner and Fred D. Meek, the leading grocers of Denver; Thomas Ward, Jr., H. C. Charpiot, John D. Fleming, J. B. Belford, H. L. Ritter, J. C. Helm, D. B. Kinkaid, John A. Deweese, A. B. Seaman, Judge A. M. Berry, leading lawyers of Denver; E. E. Goodale, county commissioner; Major Henry Suess, a leading merchant; John Malcom, superintendent of the Colorado Iron works; Thomas L. Wiswall, William K. Burchinell, John D. Ross, Meyer Harrison, A. M. Brooks, Henry C. Yaeger, all leading men of Denver. These gentlemen were nearly all of them accompanied by their wives.

Colorado Springs and Manitou had the most representative gathering ever sent to any gathering. Among them were: Mayor Robinson; J. R. McKinzie, president of the Exchange National bank; C. P. Bennett, a leading investment broker; E. E. Nichols, Jr., one of the proprietors of the Cliff house, Manitou; W. C. Robinson, W. L. Beatright, William Frick, John Voorhees, C. L. Ellington, C. W. Holsor, Prof. L. B. Grafton, S. N. Francis, Mrs. W. P. Epperson, Wallace Miller, W. McK. Barbour, Mrs. W. L. Wilder, E. F. C. Whittaker, W. L. Wilder, W. P. Epperson, C. W. Dolph, W. C. Robinson, E. C. Schreiber, Mrs. E. E. Nichols, Jr., I. N. Stevens, D. W. Rupp, Mrs. E. H. Eldredge, Mrs. J. B. Wheeler, Capt. J. B. Coghlan, Mrs. J. B. Coghlan, all leading and prominent citizens.

Pueblo sent a delegation of 15 leading citizens, Montrose eight, Greeley ten, Las Animas five, Leadville three, Lake City four, Durango three, and other towns from one to five.

Besides these distinguished people were the Republican editors of the state and their wives, and no such meeting of Republican editors ever took place in the state. Commenting on the appearance of those in attendance upon the banquet, the Denver Post, an independent Democratic paper, said editorially the next morning:

"Competent judges freely confessed that the finest looking body of men and women which has recently graced a banquet in Denver was that which gathered at the Windsor hotel last evening."

Every large city in the state had numbers of women in attendance of great prominence in club and social work in their respective localities. The elevating effect of woman's suffrage was never better demonstrated than at this banquet.

From 8 until 1:30 o'clock the participants were at the banquet table partaking of the feast or listening to speeches, and not a cigar was smoked, not a drop of liquor was touched, aside from the very light punch served with the dinner, and no man left the banquet hall to have a smoke by himself and this, too, with over 200 men present, and nearly all of them lovers of the weed.

The Republican Club of Colorado was organized for the purpose of elevating party methods and thereby helping to Republican success. The banquet certainly set a splendid pace in that direction. The Republican Club of Colorado was organized to interest the rank and file of the party and not the officeholders or the politicians. In that respect the banquet was an immense success.

No power can stop the popular movement represented by this organization and all loyal party members should encourage it in every possible way.

It will force all nominations to be made by convention, and not in secret caucuses of a few self-constituted leaders. It will require that party managers shall be of as clean lives as party candidates, and it will demonstrate that patriotism and clean methods can accomplish much greater results with Colorado voters than corruption and jobbery can. Every Republican in the state should join this club. Send your name to Harry Tarbell, secretary, 418 Mining Exchange, Denver, and he will enroll it.

No initiation fee or dues are required, and you are at liberty to donate what you please or to give nothing at all. Thirty thousand Republicans will be enrolled in this club inside of six months.

14. No holder of any political office in Colorado shall be eligible to hold any office of any kind in this club or any branch thereof.

Hoch! Der Coghlan.

(Read as part of the speech of Wolfe Londoner at Republican Club banquet, and addressed to Captain Coghlan.)

You've heard of one Manila Bay,
Where at the close of a peaceful day
A sudden boom brought on the fray!
'Twas he and Dewey!

Their gallant ships danced o'er the main;
The foeman's boats were rent in twain!
And all the world said, "Goodbye, Spain!"
'Twas he and Dewey!

With cannon shot or cutting speech
They're equal quick, and deadly each;
Nor King nor Kaiser may stand the breach
Hoch! der Coghlan!
And
Hoch! der Dewey!

The G. O. P.

(Contributed for the Republican Club Banquet.)

The Republicans their anger
Half a century ago
Hurled against the hosts of slavery,
With their faces all aglow.
Then the young, ideal party
Leaped to stand, undying fame,
'Neath the banners raised to freedom
At Explorer Fremont's name.

Then four years of White House treason,
As Rebellion plotted well,
While the imbecile Buchanan
Let the country drift to hell,
Left the way to triumph open
For the party young in years
And then, with heroic Lincoln,
Took the land with shouts and cheers.

Grant, the hero Grant, the famous
Kept the party at high-tide;
While today McKinley poses
As the nation's head and pride.
Sumner, Stanton, Greeley, Sherman,
Giddings, Fessenden, and Blaine
What a great array of heroes
In the grand old party's reign!

Where the names in other parties
That in history will glow
Since Republicans took power,
Less than forty years ago?
Not a name above negation
In the list now fading out—
Not construction, but destruction,
Followed by a fatal rout.

Colorado voters, listen!
There's a lesson in all this—
All the great men of the nation
Surely have not gone amiss.
With the past enshrined in glory,
On the present stamped success,
May the party's fame ne'er waver,
And its shadow ne'er grow less!

MISSING TOASTS.

Responses by Letter from Vice President James F. Brink and Hon. H. W. Hogg.

Colorado Springs, Colo., January 30, 1901.

Mr. Henry Tarbell, Secretary of the Republican Club of Colorado, 418 Mining Exchange Building, Denver, Colo.:

Dear Sir—Yours of the 24th, inviting me to the banquet, and notifying me of my election as vice president of the club duly received. In reply will say that I am very sorry that I will not be able to comply with your request to attend the banquet, owing to the fact that I leave Friday evening for St. Joe and Omaha to attend the annual meeting of the Portland G. M. company, which takes place Monday.

I will say that I am with you heart and soul in the good cause of keeping the grand old party in power, and it should be the object of each and every one connected with same to do his utmost at the next election, not merely for the sake of casting his vote, but to attend the primaries and see that the best men are nominated to fill the various offices, and not allow a few politicians and "ward heelers" to rule the party.

In regard to the toast of "What Interests the miner has in politics will say that it has been the mining men who have made this state and have laid the foundation of same, and have, in fact, been the corner-stone of the Republican party in Colorado. It should be the aim of all good Republicans to see that the laws in the different mining states should be revised so that the miner should receive all the benefits therefrom that are their just due, and the public lands that are set aside for reservation purposes should be thrown open to the prospector and to allow him to remove the fallen timber that could be used for mining purposes.

I hope that this banquet, which is given in the honor of the Republican editors of the state, will be the means thereby of forming closer ties and closer relations than it has in the past, and it should be the duty of each and everyone to place his shoulder to the wheel and do his share of redeeming the state from Populistic and Democratic rule forever.

Again thanking you for the honor that you have conferred on the writer, and which I regret not being able to fulfill, so far as the toast is concerned, I remain, Yours very truly,

James F. Burns.

Telluride, Colo., Jan. 31, 1901.

Harry Tarbell, Esq., Secretary Republican Club, Denver, Colo.:

Dear Sir—I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 24th inst., notifying me that I am expected to be present at your banquet on the 2nd prox., and respond to the toast, "Colorado, a Republican State."

It would give me great pleasure indeed to be with you on so enjoyable an occasion, in so distinguished a company, and participate in the pleasures and good cheer of the banquet; for it has been many a weary year since the Republicans of the state have had much reason to meet, save for funeral services, or had anything to celebrate a precarious "hand-out."

Why, do you know that which it comes to eating, that Lazarus, picking up crumbs from the rich man's table, lived riotously and sumptuously in comparison with the Republicans of late? However, the chances for grub are brightening every day, and it is well that the party gets itself accustomed to the old-time gustatory endeavors.

But why assign such a toast to me? Do you think that I am in a position just after an election that left me a resident of the state, to know any more of this subject than some others we wot of?

Why didn't you give this toast to Frank Goudy? He tramped all over the state last fall, or, rather, the state tramped all over him, while only about half of it struck me. And there are others. Do you think a Republican state would send up such a legislature? Nix Ed. And while you are about it, you might ask the late lamented governor.

Possibly someone has sprung this toast on me to see how I would take it. Well me hide is rather thick. Bell tanned it a short time ago, and it seems to be taking all right, the tan, but—I may be wrong, I may be wrong."

I imagine, however, that you expect me to be reminiscent, and speak of Colorado as it was, or prophetic, and imagine what it will be—some day. The task would seem to be useless in either view, for what it has been simply intensifies the disgust we feel at what it is, and what it will be, the Lord, and Speaker Montgomery only know, and the Lord is not saying much. The speaker makes up for the silence.

We are told that the Jews took a 40-year jaunt through the wilderness as a preparation for the proper enjoyment of the promised land. Some of them never entered, but they had the preparation just the same, and so of our people. Many have masqueraded under the pretense of fusion in the holy cause of silver, until they have received the proper temper, and have emerged in the full armor of galvanized Democrats.

Some didn't galvanize. A once great Republican senator, and a once great candidate for senator, have mingled their tears, plighted their troth, and some governors and things have blessed the compact, and every mother's son of them is cussin'.

They are like a boy in the country school with the itch, an object of attention, much solicitude, and the cause of much uneasiness in the school. Tom isn't scratching now; he was, but Charlie is a little raw—in places.

Colorado a Republican state—so be. From recent advices I believe that would be an easier toast, and I hope some fellow will respond to it; a man with imagination and nerve. I imagine it would have been more comfortable like it happened just before the late election, it would not have

CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is customary to speak of Catarrh as nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the foul secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Salves, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison and eliminates from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases.

Mr. P. H. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes: "Having been a terrible sufferer from Catarrh, and being now sound and well, the question often put to me is, 'What cured you?' In answer I feel it my duty to state that Swift's Specific is the medicine. I am such a true believer in the efficacy of Swift's Specific that I can honestly and conscientiously recommend it to any one suffering from Catarrh. Have recommended it to many, and am happy to say that those whom I have induced to use it can bear me out in the statement that it will cure any case of Catarrh if taken according to directions."

S.S.S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep seated and chronic, but begin at once the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on Blood and Skin diseases and write our physicians about your case.

THE JOY OF THE house is the baby. No matter how many have come before, the latest arrival brings joy to all.

When the little one takes his first glimpse of the world, he is in it is a minute of keenest joy.

Father is proud, mother is fond, brother is eager, sisters are tender, nurse is devoted, the whole human world is kind.

There is another, an under, world with enemies in it.

When baby gets into its shadow, be quick with Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil he is sure to get into its shadow; let him get no futher than into the edge of it. Health is the baby's life.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

delayed some of our certificates of election so long.—I have not received mine yet. Yet it is not so improbable that Colorado will be a Republican state in the near future, because the Democrats have swallowed about everything in sight, and are now busy nosing around for more; their appetite is merely appeased in a degree, not satisfied; there are so many of them willing to do the driving, and perfectly qualified, that they are inclined to be a little warm at the fellow holding the reins, although, for the sake of not falling off one or two of them got off the driver's perch recently, with a view of crawling back in a couple of years, if we don't stop him. How sad to give up an ambition of so long standing, that the legislature may do some business; it would have been a blessing to the state if the ambition had been indulged so long that the legislature would have had no time for business such as theirs. From the future bickerings of the discordant elements now in power will come the salvation of the state, and the supremacy of Republicanism. It is clearly manifest to the casual observer, that the highest interests of the state will be the best subserved by an adherence to such policies as will induce the helpfulness of capital in developing our vast and varied industries, rather than the despoliation of the splendid achievements of the past; that will cause money to flow in to our enrichment, rather than flow out to safety, or remain in idleness in preference to seeking employment that renders its earnings unsafe.

It is apparent, also, that the thinking element in the ranks of labor are beginning to see that the best interests of labor are preserved and advanced by a system that gives increased demand and employment to it, and that it is best to depend upon a rational and orderly advancement of enterprise than upon the uncertain and precarious wresting of wages by force. Surely it is wise to depend upon reason, rather than passion. The welding of the various interests of men can come only by the steady fire of reason, not from the fitful glare of prejudice and hate. These being the conditions, it is only necessary that we organize thoroughly and educate incessantly. The formation of active Republican clubs throughout the state, and every precinct in the state, is the method to be followed, not antagonistic organizations, but harmonious effort along all lines for the advancement of Republican principles, and particularly rendering loyal support to the various committees and officers which the party has placed in command. Organized in perfect harmony, with candidates the choice of the party as such, with principles that appeal to the good sense, judgment and patriotism of the people, the state will be Republican for years to come. To the czars of society, in whose honor your banquet is spread, whose unselfish grind makes communities tolerable, with an occasional touch-down, I send the kindliest wishes, and trust the feast will not be all pi to them. Sorry I can't be with you, but here's to Colorado,—sorry it wasn't Republican a month or so ago. Yours obediently,

H. M. Hogg.

The Belligerent Non-Combatant.

The feeling of vindictiveness, while it pervaded all classes, more or less, who were engaged with the confederates, was far more intense among non-combatants than with the returned soldiers, says ex-Secretary Herbert in the February Atlantic. These had learned to respect their foes; courage had been demonstrated to be common to both armies; kind offices to the wounded and the hungry had been mutual, and the hungry had been Grant's veterans with Lee's at Appomattox was just what had occurred on a smaller scale many times before. But the non-combatants at the south (and so it must have been at the north, judging from subsequent events) had none of the kindly feelings with which soldiers regarded their adversaries. It was quite common in 1865 to hear a soldier say that, for himself, he had had enough of it; "but my neighbor, who had been hiding all the time at home behind a bomb-proof position, has just now begun to get mad. What a pity he couldn't have gotten his courage up before the fighting was over." And now, 35 years afterwards, it may be affirmed without reserve that if the soldiers of the two armies had been allowed of themselves, uninfluenced by politicians, to dictate the terms of reconstruction, the history of the United States during the past three decades would have been widely different.

The Metal Market.

New York, Feb. 6.—It was a day of small things in local metal circles generally, even more so than during the past few weeks. A steadier feeling, however, prevailed in tin, despite weak advices from London, where prices were 15s lower on spot to £79 15s. The trading was heavy and dull. The close here was quiet and steady at $26.35@26.50. Copper was without important new features, ruling dull and easy at $17 for Lake Superior and $16.62½ for casting and electrolytic, these figures being largely nominal in the absence of business. The close at London was quiet at £71 6s, 2d. Lead continues to rule dull, with trading of a hand to mouth order at $4.37½ for large lots, spelter was again weak and partially lower, owing to a lack of buyers, closing weak in tone at $5.05@4.00. While the iron markets abroad were weak and lower domestic markets were without any special feature, though displaying an easy undertone. The close was easy at $9.50@10.50 for pig iron warrants; northern foundry $15@16.50; southern foundry $14.50@15.75 and soft southern $14.00@15.75. Glasgow iron closed at 53s. 7d. The Middlesboro 46s 4d.

Don't wait to be left, come early. Kaufmann's greatest shoe sale.

The garment sale that eclipses all others in low prices—Pollin's.

BIG DAY'S BUSINESS

Total Sales of New York Stocks Reached 1,994,200 Shares.

RAILROAD BONDS IN DEMAND

Denver & Rio Grande Made a Sensational Advance of 5 1-8 and Other Colorado Stocks Affected.

New York, Feb. 6.—The trading in stocks and bonds today showed extraordinary volume and variety, the aggregate sales of all stocks reaching 1,994,200 shares, compared with the record of over 2,100,000 shares which only exceeds them. The day's business in bonds was also very large, but it did not reach the level attained at various times in the bull market of the spring of 1899.

The demand for railroad bonds is a very notable feature in the current market and the pressure of investment funds into these semi-speculative securities had a great influence on speculative sentiment in the stock market. The day's market divided itself quite distinctly into three classes. The first was comprised in the opening bulge in which the violent competitive bidding due to the congestion of urgent buying orders over night caused some sensational advances.

Prices promptly ran off on profit taking attracted by this high level and the market yielded so easily that the bear traders made a vigorous attack causing some severe breaks in prices. This comprised the second cycle of the market, when the selling mood had exhausted itself traders began to be impressed with the character of some of the buying at the decline. When the semi-annual dividend on Reading first preferred was announced showing an increase from 1½ the previous rate to 2 per cent the buying again became furiously active and a considerable short interest was driven precipitately to cover. This comprised the final cycle in the market. The final recovery was broken by frequent periods of realizing which continued in some cases to the close, making the tone slightly irregular at the last, though the undertone was strong. The opening bulge was most pronounced in the steel stocks under the influence of the growing belief in the plan to concentrate all the great steel combinations. This billion dollar consolidation is so stupendous in its proportions and offers such vast possibilities for flotation of new securities as to dazzle the most fertile speculative imagination. The current belief in its accomplishment really underlay the whole speculative movement of the day, although there were other considerations which supplemented it. The most conspicuous movements in the steel stocks and the largest transactions were in Federal Steel and Steel and Wire. Federal Steel rose 3⅜ and the preferred 4¼. Steel and Wire rose 3 and the preferred 2. National Tube was up 3⅜ and Republic Steel preferred 4¼. There were considerable reactions in this group, as well as in the wheat group after the opening bulge. The selling to take profits showed signs of urgency at many points in the railroad list and some of the leading stocks got from 1 to 3 points under last night. Those which have recently advanced most strongly were weakest on the decline. Pennsylvania, the coalers, the grangers, the southwesterns (including Atchison, and Southern Pacific), and Louisville, were all conspicuously heavy. Some of them remained comparatively heavy until the close. Union Pacific yielded under the early profit-taking, but took a very prominent part in the recovery reaching a level 4⅛ over yesterday. Denver and Rio Grande made a sensational advance of 5⅛ and the preferred of 2¾, while other Colorado stocks were affected to a less degree on the supposition that their amalgamation is imminent. Call money again rose above the recently current rate in the late dealings, but without affecting the bullish enthusiasm. No gold was engaged for export, which was not a surprise in view of the downward course of foreign interest rates and the general expectation that the rate of discount of the Bank of England will be reduced tomorrow, to be followed by like action by other foreign government banks. Wabash debentures were the feature of the bond market, rising 4¼. Other low-priced bonds were in large demand. Total sales, $8,589,000.

U. S. refunding 2s declined ⅛ in bid price.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—The opening in wheat was not cheerful. In the way of news there was nothing of moment save the fact that Liverpool had declined agreeably to the example set on this side yesterday. Outside interest was still undeveloped. This left the generally bearish crowd to furnish a demand and they were in no wise inclined to this; the liberality of offerings from commission houses and individual longs resulted in heaviness early. May opened at 74⅝ to ¾ and gradually worked lower to 74⅜. The demand such as it was came almost entirely from shorts who took the opportunity to secure profits. Attention was called to the statement of an Antwerp correspondent that Europe was dependent on this country for the best part of its imported wheat, and that the lifelessness of continental markets could be removed by encouragement from this side. As if in confirmation of these assertions exporters at the decline bought reporting foreign engagements which before the end of the session aggregated 95 loads. Shorts, already nervous, betook themselves to protect their operations made earlier and May rallied to 74⅞, closing firm and unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Corn enjoyed moderate activity within a narrow range.

Oats were quiet but independently firm.

Provisions were dull and the market heavy until just before the close when it rallied a shade.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The directors of the Portland Gold Mining company met yesterday in this city and elected officers to serve for the ensuing year. The directors are the same as they were last year with the exception of Mr. T. F. Burns, who has Mr. John Harnan's place. The officers are Jas. F. Burns, president; Irving Howbert, vice president; F. G. Peck, secretary and treasurer; Charles A. Turner, assistant secretary; Irving Howbert, assistant treasurer, and R. A. Trgvarthen, superintendent.

WORK RESUMED ON ORE OR NO GO.

The Ore or No Go company have resumed operations on their Louisiana claim on Raven hill, and are drifting both east and west from the bottom of their shaft. They expect to get the extension of the vein which has been opened in the Bonnie Nell and New Haven properties, and in the east drift they now report that assays have been obtained which indicate the proximity of an ore body. The outlook for finding ore on the property is very good. The vein which has been opened in the two properties mentioned is known to cross the Louisiana claim, and very good float has been found on the property.

STRIKE REPORTED ON THE GOLDEN DALE.

A strike has been reported made on the property of the Golden Dale company on Raven hill. The strike is said to have been made on the ground which is being worked by a sub-lease, but no particulars of the find have yet reached the offices of the company in this city. The property is located near the Moosejaw and consists of about five acres of ground, which is in the way of some known veins. The company has, in its past, met with mishaps and as a result may be said to go around on crutches in the shape of a capitalization of 3,000,000 shares, but the affairs are now in charge of able officers and there is a prospect that the property will develop favorably.

BONNIE NELL IS AFTER THE JOE DANDY VEIN.

In the Bonnie Nell mine, on Raven hill, crosscutting is now in progress for the Joe Dandy vein at a depth of 300 feet and the discovery is expected to be made almost any day. In anticipation of this the stock manifested some strength yesterday, selling up as high as 8¼. The vein was opened in the 200-foot level by the company which is conducting the work on its own account and some encouraging streaks of ore were discovered, after which the shaft was pushed down another 100 feet. Then the 200-foot level was leased, and the lessees are now meeting with fair success and are themselves expecting to get some shipping ore at this depth.

STRIKE IS REPORTED ON LEON CONSOLIDATED.

A good strike is reported to have been made on the property of the Leon Consolidated company, which is located on Galena hill, and is supposed to have a strong dike similar to the Sunshine's crossing the property. No particulars of the find had reached the offices of the company yesterday afternoon, although the rumor has been heard. One of the officers of the company intends to go up to the property and make an examination, and before then no information will be given out.

CROSSCUTTING FOR ORE IN UNCLE SAM MINE.

A great deal depends upon the disclosures of a crosscut which is now being run at a depth of 300 feet in the Uncle Sam of the Bimble company. If this encounters the same grade of ore which is now proved up in the next level above, the mine will be in shape to maintain a large production of smelting grade ore for a long time. Lessee Glenn, who is operating the mine, is making a production of one car a day from the second level, almost all of which goes to the smelters. The ore runs between two and three ounces in gold to the ton, and there is reported to be a very large body of this in sight, proved up since it was encountered a few weeks ago. The shoot is supposed to be an extension of that which was at one time a bonanza ore body in the Pinnacle.

ANOTHER SHIPMENT LEFT SPRATT LEASE ON KIMBERLY.

Spratt Bros., leasing a block of the Lonaconing of the Kimberly company, have just marketed their second shipment since they took hold of the ground a few weeks ago, after the lease of Milliken and Brownlee expired. The consignment consists of 20 tons of ore which is expected to run about $50 in gold to the ton. The first shipment returns from which have been received, did not run so high as this, but was of fair pay values. The ore is coming from the 350-foot level. On block 4, which is under lease to Bentley and associates, the recent discovery is showing up very well in the 175 foot level, and a crosscut is now in progress to cut the ore at the 250-foot depth.

ELKS LEASE CANCELLED ON THE C. C. & M.

The Elks Leasing company, operating the south end of the Iron King, Red Rock and Ella claims of the C. C. and M. company, have had their lease cancelled through. It is understood, failure to comply with its terms. Other parties are ready to go on, however, and there will be but little delay in resuming work. Three other sets of lessees are at work on the property of the company. A considerable amount of work has been done, the shaft being down 105 feet, with much lateral work. These Tenderfoot hill claims adjoin the Hoosier and Bob Lee properties.

The Recent Advance

in the price of "Progress" stock is probably due to the presumption that the rich "Missouri" vein crosses the Gold King claim owned by

The "Progress" Company

Based on its merits, we believe "Progress" stock should be selling very much higher than present quotations.

THE "PROGRESS" COMPANY OWNS:

The "GOLD KING" and "TOM GOUGH" claims, five and a half acres patented, on Gold Hill, adjoining the Anchoria-Leland, Lexington and Missouri.

The "BECKY SHARP" claim and "DAUNTLESS" claim, on Raven Hill.

The "SPIDER" and "TRINIDAD" claims on a spur of Beacon Hill.

The "GOLD CUP" and "TIN CUP" claims on Rhyolite Mountain.

In all over 15 ACRES of valuable patented ground.

The Gold King and Tom Gough claims are being vigorously developed by three sets of lessees.

We believe conservative investors will appreciate the fact that "Progress" stock at present quotations is a decided bargain.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Feb. 6.—The market on the local mining exchange was still in a lively condition today, although there were not so many sensational advances scored as there were yesterday. The general tone of the market was a firm one, with an advancing proclivity apparent in many shares. Galena hill still influences the amount of the trading, owning the sales, up into the hundreds of thousands, and the stocks owning property in that prominence are all strong and many are advancing. In the mines list the trading is very light and insignificant and prices were not quite so firm there as they were yesterday morning, when it looked for a little while as if Elkton might score $2.

The market in the afternoon was characterized again by heavy trading in the Galena hill stocks, especially Eleanor, which sold up to 6 again, and Sedan remained strong at 17¾, while Colonial Dames sold at 3¾, and Leon advanced to 5, under heavy trading, and 35,000 shares of Horseshoe sold at 3. All the noticeable strength was in the pit call, and there Golden Cycle, the new stock recently floated at 75, sold at 78 with that price bid for it at the close.

Golden Dale was a very heavy trader and declined fractionally to 2¾. German-American sold up to 8¾, due to the good reports which come from this property. Missouri opened stronger again at 17½, but sold down to 17 during the call. Acacia sold down to 17¾. Pointer closed at 21 and Zoe at 23¼, regular.

The sales for the day amounted to 1,736,564 shares, of which the cash value was $163,495.

ANACONDA SHIPMENTS

Good Body of Ore on the Alsa R. of the Golden Dale Company--Improved Showing in the Doctor Mine.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Feb. 6.—Several good shipments have been sent out lately from the Anaconda mine from the ore bodies at a depth of 450 feet below the tunnel level. Although the ore which was first encountered in the crosscut has not fulfilled the expectations of the management, the drifts have opened good ore shoots both north and south of the crosscut. Some of the ore runs as high as $200 to the ton and it is holding out very well in the course of stoping. Regular shipments are now being sent out.

Lessees MacDonald and Hayworth, operating a block of the Alsa R. of the Golden Dale company on the east slope of Raven hill, have cut a good body of ore in a slanting winze from the 50-foot level of the property. The shaft is down to a depth of about 70 feet. In the drift from the 50-foot level, the ore has been spotty until a few days ago. There is a three-foot body of the ore, which averages $75 to the ton, while high assays have been obtained from a streak on the left hand side of a phonolite dike, which separates the ore shoots. From wall to wall, including the phonolite formation, the ore body is about five feet in width. So far no pay values have been encountered in the phonolite, while the porphyry carrying the values is fairly well spotted with free gold. The lessees are confident of making a better showing after they have reached a greater depth and believe they have just encountered the top of a permanent shoot of ore. Some ore has already been saved in the shaft and an ore plant was just put up today.

A new body of ore has been reported in the fifteenth level of the Doctor mine. The management, however, says it is difficult to interest shoving in the ore shoot on which they are stoping. The work is being carried on at a distance of 150 feet north of the incline shaft of the Doctor and the results are better than were expected.

The Triumph Gold Mining company today let a contract for 120 feet of additional sinking and 90 feet of drifting in its property on Battle mountain.

Lessee O Trescott, leasing the west end of the Pauner claim on Bull hill, has sold a portion of his interest to a Kansas City company, which owns considerable property in Gilpin county. Work is being carried on in five different places in the property and in the 125-foot level the west vein of the Independence Consolidated company is being drifted on with varied results. A tale seam of about two inches in width gives values of from 1½ to 7 ounces, while the rock looks as if it will run pay. The vein is about three feet in width.

ANACONDA ANNUAL REPORTS

Show That $7,931.22 Was Received as Royalties From Lessees During the Past Year--$13,382.25 on Hand Jan. 1.

The annual reports of the Anaconda company, originally presented to the stockholders' meeting on the 15th ult., were received in this city yesterday and show a very satisfactory state of affairs.

Less than a year ago, before the reorganization of the company, its affairs were in a deplorable state. A heavy debt was carried, the interest upon which could not be met; taxes were accumulating and there was no prospect for ever being able to start work again on the 150 acres of good ground on Gold hill.

Finally, the officers of the company, to avert a foreclosure sale for the debt, sent out circulars soliciting a contribution of 12 cents per share, but they met with almost no response. The successful remedy was finally found in raising the capitalization from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 shares. Enough of the increased stock was then sold to pay the indebtedness and to start work below the tunnel level, and the surface of the territory was divided up and leased.

The reports, which are exceedingly concise, and yet seemingly exhaustive, are given below:

Secretary's Report.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 15, 1901.

To the Stockholders of the Anaconda Mining Company:

Gentlemen—It is a source of gratification to the officers of the Anaconda Mining company that their corporation enters the present year under conditions vastly more favorable than for a number of years past.

Since its reorganization, work has been actively resumed by the company on its mineral properties in sinking the winze or shaft from the Main tunnel level to the depth of about 400 feet, from which point levels are now being run westerly and easterly prospecting the property at a depth of 800 feet below the surface.

In the east drift a vein containing good ore has been encountered and is now being prospected. This is supposed to be the old Anaconda vein which produced so much ore near the surface and gave the property its reputation in the early days of Cripple Creek.

This work has now been prosecuted far enough to determine that the vein carries valuable ore deposits and ore is being saved and shipped from same. Two other veins have also been cut in these lower workings.

Numerous lease contracts have been made and 25 leases block of the company's properties are now being worked by lessees above the tunnel level. A number of the lessees are shipping ore quite regularly, and the company is receiving royalties averaging $2,000,000 per month at the present time.

In December, 1900, the Anaconda Mining company purchased the Grace Greenwood lode mining claim, paying for same 50,000 shares of treasury stock. This claim being practically surrounded by the Anaconda properties and penetrated by the Anaconda tunnel makes a very valuable asset for the corporation. Two shipments of ore have been made by lessees from this ground since possession was taken by this company and the indications are good for large ore bodies.

Annexed is a report of receipts and expenditures since the present organization took hold of the property, also detailed report from each lease.

By reason of the great amount of ground being worked by lessees and the consequent increase in the tonnage made at an increased rate of royalty, together with shipments being made by the company on its own account, the receipts for the coming year should be materially increased.

The royalties received previous to January 1 were graded from 15 per cent to 20 per cent, depending upon the value of the ore, and we now receive 25 per cent on all grades shipped by lessees.

Respectfully,
F. C. Campbell,
Secretary and Manager.

OPENING UP A NEW LEVEL

The Theresa M. and L. Company Will Soon Reach the Ore Bodies in the Sixth Level and Begin Heavier Production.

The Theresa Mining and Leasing company has just started work in running their new sixth level and expect to soon be able to reach the known ore bodies and begin blocking out ore. Since they took hold of the Theresa mine on Bull hill about four months ago they have completed 260 feet of dead work, part of which has been expended in putting the shaft down to this new level.

For some weeks they have been making good shipments, but expect in a few more they will be sending out a much greater amount of the ore. The production so far has come only from the upper levels of the mine whence last month they shipped 21 cars. The values have averaged between $20 and $30 in gold to the ton.

It has been established lately that the Legal Tender vein will probably intersect, cross the property, and prospecting for this at the lowest level will soon be started.

The leasing company is composed of Denver people who took hold of the mine with confidence. They felt that it had never been adequately developed and that with aggressive operators, backed by ample capital, there was every chance for making a very good thing out of the property. They accordingly incorporated the company with a capitalization of $100,000, and since that time they have done good work getting the mine into good shape for a large production.

The stock of the company is often traded in on the pit call of the local mining exchange, and sells at 20 cents a share.

BIG DEAL IN IDAHO SPRINGS

A Consolidation Involving $200,000---Crown Point, Virginia, Silver Edge and Franklin Will be Under One Management.

Special to the Gazette.

Idaho Springs, Feb. 6.—A big mining deal has just been closed in this city involving a cash consideration of $200,000. The Colorado-California Share Holders Mining and Milling company, owner of the Crown Point and Virginia mine at the top of Virginia canon, and of the Franklin mine in Gilson gulch, has consolidated its interests with the Silver Edge and French Flag groups.

The Silver Edge is an old timer and notoriously rich shipper, and for some time the Franklin has been worked through the Silver Edge shaft, and the ore taken out has been of an exceptionally good grade.

Mr. James E. Berryhill of Des Moines, Iowa, is here in the interests of the deal, and the Silver Edge part of it has now been completed. With the Silver Edge mine is included the mill with a capacity of 100 tons a day and fitted up with all modern machinery for a first class German process concentrator. It has also all modern tables for saving the finer values in the ore. The Silver Edge mill, with the water rights are most valuable acquisitions. The mill site is four miles down the creek from Newhouse.

The consolidation of these mines under one management will give the Share Holders company one of the largest and best holdings in the district. The company already owns the Wilkie mill, just below town, and nearly opposite the New house tunnel, and they are also interested in the Allen mill on Chicago creek.

The company is under the management of Mr. W. H. Knowles.

The London Market.

New York, Feb. 6. Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram:

All business in the stock market here today centered in Americans, which were buoyant and brisk throughout the session. Denver & Rio Grande issues took the lead on two large orders, the source of which could not be traced, but the stock kept to the front and held that position strongly all day. There was some talk of the Hill deriving benefits from the Union-Southern Pacific deal. New York sent over early orders and was a strong buyer, especially in the bonds of the Wabash company, about which there was some vague talk of pending consolidation. Berlin continued to buy Canadian Pacific shares, although it is not yet expected that the dividend will be increased. Union Pacific stocks seemed inclined to hang fire.

C. E. SOCIAL—The C. E. society of the Second Presbyterian church will hold a social at the home of Reves H. Lyle, opposite the Washington school, this evening.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS—The following new members of the chamber of commerce were recorded yesterday: Clarence Edsall, Dr. Frederick A. Faust, Dr. J. Allen Smith and Esch and Vining.

PIONEERS ATTEND—The funeral services of Mrs. R. W. Steele will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, No. 128 N. Weber street. The pioneers of the state are especially invited to attend.

TEMPLARS—Stated conclave of Pike's Peak commandery No. 6, K. T., this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the asylum, Opera House block. Visiting sir knights are courteously invited to attend.

SPRUCE STREET MEETING—The meeting at Spruce street chapel this evening at 7:30 will have something for the social element. Dr. Boyle and others will be present, and the public is invited.

K. OF P.—Syracuse lodge No. 111, Knights of Pythias, will meet in regular session in the Knights of Pythias hall, DeGraff building, at 7:30 this evening. The first rank will be conferred on six candidates.

AGED LADY DEAD—Dr. W. Carey Allen received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of his mother at Albion, N. Y. Mrs. Allen was 87 year of age and has usually been quite well for one of such advanced years. Her illness was of short duration as the doctor did not know that she was ill until the telegram came announcing the death.

The meeting of the Frances Willard union at 209 South Weber will be omitted this week, and instead the union will meet at 222 South Wahsatch with Mrs. N. Poor for a parlor meeting and also a farewell to Mrs. A. Gillilan who has been a loyal member of the local union but is to make her home in Denver for the future.

SLANDS FOR HIM—Marshall Johnson, the well-known student of Colorado college who was elected captain of next year's football team, has been entered by his friends in the contest for the most popular school youth in the state. The contest is being conducted by the Denver Times and the winner will be given a trip to the McKinley inauguration. Jonson's friends have been working hard for him and at latest reports he stood fourth in the list.

JOINS SOUSA—Mr. James H. Barnes, who has been with the Rapid Transit company for a great many years as bookkeeper and in charge of the tickets, has resigned his position. Mr. Barnes has accepted a place with Sousa's band, as assistant treasurer and manager. He leaves today for Salt Lake City to join the company. The present trip will continue until the last of May and will carry the band to the Pacific coast and back to New York. In June the band goes to the Buffalo exposition for a season, then to Manhattan beach, N. Y., for the summer and later to England and Scotland. Mr. Barnes' family will remain here during his absence. The manager for Sousa is one of the leading men in the country in that line. He became attracted with the business-like manner in which Mr. Barnes worked the tickets at the Opera house.

SCATTERED THE MAIL—There was a good deal of excitement created in the rear of the postoffice yesterday about noon. A horse hitched to a mail carrier's wagon attempted to tamper with the mails and scatter the bags all over the street. No damage was done, however, and the horse is sadder but wiser. Yesterday about 11:30 when Carrier Edwards returned from his route in his mail cart, he took the bridle off the horse in order that he might give the animal something to eat. Whether the horse rebelled against the kind of feed he was getting or simply became frightened, will probably remain a mystery, but it is known that he turned quickly around, shoved Mr. Edwards to one side, and started to run. He ran out of the alley onto Nevada avenue and then turned south to Huerfano and east on the latter street. He had everything his own way till he got as far as Nye & Scofield's restaurant, when someone climbed into the cart and stopped him. The latter was not going to surrender without a struggle, however, and as he did some kicking. It is not known whether he kicked against being stopped, but at any rate the harness got the worst of it and will have to go to the repair shop before it can be used again.

Father to Son Mother to Daughter

Often so in the wearing of glasses. Only in rare instances is this necessary if timely precaution were used. Most parents who have been "afflicted" with glasses all their lives dread to put them on their children, and postpone the "evil day" so long they become a necessity to the child through life, whereas if the eyes were properly cared for during early years glasses need be used only for a short time.

We make a specialty of the eyes of children.
